

CONTENTS

	Page
Foreword.....	III
Letter of transmittal.....	V
Introduction and summary.....	1
Gold movements and dollar balances.....	3
Merchandise trade.....	4
Capital movements and earnings on investments.....	5
Areas in which action has been proposed.....	5
What does "international balance" mean?.....	6
International balance under the free gold standard.....	7
Illustration of adjustment to increased commodity imports under a system of free exchange rates and the free gold standard.....	8
International balance under conditions of inconvertibility.....	9
Recent changes in the U.S. balance of international payments.....	11
Merchandise exports and imports.....	14
Which years to compare?.....	14
Merchandise exports.....	17
Merchandise imports.....	18
The changing "export surplus".....	20
The trade picture in perspective.....	24
Services.....	25
Capital movements.....	27
Military expenditures and foreign aid.....	33
Cost of maintaining U.S. military forces abroad.....	34
Nonmilitary grants.....	36
Foreign dollar balances and gold movements.....	38
Is there a "gold shortage"?.....	41
Speculation in gold.....	42
Conclusions.....	43
Areas in which action has been proposed.....	45
Suggestions with respect to gold and the international payments system.....	45
(1) Devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold.....	45
(2) Assurance that the present price of $35 per ounce of gold will be maintained.....	46
(3) The United States to continue to sell gold for foreign-held dollars at the fixed price of $35 per ounce, but to terminate the guarantee to buy gold from foreigners at that, or any other, fixed price.....	46
(4) Reduction, or elimination, of the 25-percent legal minimum gold reserve requirement.....	46
(5) International pooling of gold reserves.....	47
The substitution, wherever feasible, of payments "in kind" for uni- lateral dollar transfers.....	47
Transfer of our allies of a larger share of the cost of military defense and economic aid.....	48
Try to increase merchandise exports, relative to merchandise exports.....	48
Curb inflation and deflation.....	50
Chart I. Major changes in the balance of international payments of the United States in recent years.....	11
Chart II. U.S. merchandise exports and imports, 1950-60, and exports, imports, and gross national product, United States, 1950-60.....	16