

CONTENTS

	Page
Letters of transmittal.....	III
Introduction.....	VII
I. A Time for Review of Our Trade Policy Toward the Soviet Bloc.....	1
A. Our Economic Relations Within the Western Community.....	1
B. A Common Policy Towards the Bloc.....	3
II. The Opportunities for Better Coordination of Western Policies.....	4
A. The Steady Expansion of East-West Trade.....	4
B. The Soviet Appetite for Western Technology.....	4
III. The Nature of the Communist Trading System.....	6
A. Market Practices of the State Trading Agencies.....	6
B. The Propensity to Dump.....	7
C. Current Pressures Against Western Firms.....	8
D. The Position of Our Western Allies.....	9
IV. The Unique Position of the Soviet Satellites.....	10
V. The Underdeveloped World: A Major Arena of Political Decision.....	11
A. The Flow of Equipment From the West Is Already Large.....	11
B. The Bloc Is Staging Its Effects.....	12
VI. The Need for a Code of Fair Trade Practices.....	13
A. Types of Protection Required by the West.....	13
B. Intra-West Ceilings on Commercial Terms.....	14
VII. The Responsibilities of the United States in East-West Trade.....	15
VIII. Some Conclusions on the Scope of Required New Legislation.....	18