

VIII*CONTENTS

| Chapter                                                              | Page |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| VIII. Trade adjustment in mining: The lead-zinc mining industry..... | 77   |
| The industry's need for readjustment.....                            | 77   |
| Structure of industry.....                                           | 78   |
| Prices, reserves, and substitutes.....                               | 79   |
| Labor cost and employment sensitivity.....                           | 80   |
| Imports and consumption.....                                         | 82   |
| The escape clause investigations.....                                | 83   |
| Features of a trade adjustment program.....                          | 86   |
| Another proposal.....                                                | 88   |
| Readjustment of miners.....                                          | 89   |
| Conclusion.....                                                      | 90   |
| Appendix: Proposed remedies other than trade restrictions.....       | 91   |
| The premium-price plan.....                                          | 91   |
| Stockpiling.....                                                     | 91   |
| International buffer stocks.....                                     | 92   |
| Bibliography.....                                                    | 95   |