NUMBER OF ADP ORGANIZATIONAL UNITS

1. An ADP organizational unit is an element of an organization which has custody of and operates equipment configurations consisting of (a) punched-card equipment only or (b) one or more electronic digital computers together with the supporting peripheral and punched-card equipment.
2. The number of ADP organizational units is increasing steadily. Note that this growth is accounted for by an increase in the number of computer units, inasmuch as the number of units with punched-card equipment only has virtually stabilized over the years.
