

other peoples in the world. We would use that and do use that sort of thing as an example which is responsive to our authority and responsibility; namely, to plan for what happens if they are closed for other reasons.

Mr. FARSTEIN. This I cannot understand, because in answer to Mr. Gross' question yesterday with relation to the contract that was made with the Kansas City organization, you said, "We believe this can identify what shipyards can best be used if their activity is changed. That is a competitive contract. We believe this is a choice that was based on the best personnel and so on and it was coordinated and so on."

Isn't this the very thing that you now deny you have authority to do?

Mr. FOSTER. No, sir; I don't think so at all. We are using these closings which occur because of obsolescence of certain weapons, because of changes of contracts as between private contractors as examples today, practical examples of what the effect of cutbacks in expenditures for armaments can mean and how one plans to take care of the dislocation of human beings and other resources which occur thereby.

This is one of the items which we are asked to consider as amongst the research areas that we look at.

Chairman MORGAN. The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. Fountain, do you want to use your time now?

Mr. FOUNTAIN. Mr. Chairman. In your statement, Mr. Foster, you state that some 40 countries of the world possess reactors used in peaceful atomic energy programs. Did any of those countries get their reactors from us?

Mr. FOSTER. Yes, sir.

Mr. FOUNTAIN. If so, which ones?

Mr. FOSTER. Well, I can supply a list.
(The information follows:)

Countries which have obtained nuclear reactors from the United States

Country	Power reactors	Test, research, and teaching reactors	Country	Power reactors	Test research, and teaching reactors
Australia.....		X.	Japan.....	X.....	X.
Austria.....		X.	Korea.....		X.
Brazil.....		X.	Mexico.....		Planned.
Canada.....		X.	Netherlands.....	Planned.....	X.
China (Republic).....		X.	Pakistan.....		Being built.
Colombia.....		Planned.	Philippines.....		X.
Congo (Léopoldville).....		X.	Portugal.....		X.
Denmark.....		X.	South Africa.....		X.
Finland.....		X.	Spain.....	Planned.....	X.
France.....	Being built..		Sweden.....		X.
Germany (Federal Republic).....	X.....	X (including 1 in West Berlin).	Switzerland.....		X.
Greece.....		X.	Thailand.....		X.
India.....	Being built..		Turkey.....		X.
Indonesia.....		Being built.	United Kingdom.....	X (population).	X.
Iran.....		Being built.	Venezuela.....		X.
Israel.....		X.	Vietnam.....		X.
Italy.....	X.....	X.	Yugoslavia.....		Being built.

Mr. FOSTER. India, South Africa—there are probably 23 or 24 countries. In each of these cases as I said yesterday there is either a