

Bureau of Customs	1. Pt. 26 of the customs regulations (19 CFR, pt. 26), particularly sec. 26.1(a). 2. Interim opinions of orders are not usually issued.	1. Confidential treatment of custom records and documents. See sec. 26.4 of customs regulations (19 CFR 26.4).	1. Generally none. 2. However, may serve as precedents in arriving at a decision in a matter before it; may be aided by results of its previous consideration of similar matters.	See secs. 26.1 to 26.7 of the customs regulations (19 CFR 26.1 to 26.7).
Bureau of Engraving and Printing	None.	None.	None.	1. Does not issue interpretations or legal opinions. 2. Procedures used for making records and files available. See 31 CFR 1.2 (c), (f), (g), (h).
Bureau of Accounts	1. Certificates of authority issued to certain corporations are published in Federal Register. a. Also published as a Treasury Department Circular. b. Furnished to Federal bonding approving officers and other persons upon request.	Issues no final or interim orders or opinions. None.	None.	1. Matter which falls within the jurisdiction of the Office of General Counsel. 2. See 31 CFR 270.2 a. Request for information. b. Copy furnished to party requesting same. c. Party must have proper interest.
Office of Treasurer of the United States.	None.	None.	None.	See 31 CFR 351. Matter falls within jurisdiction of the Office of General Counsel. a. Requests for information. b. Copy furnished to party requesting same. c. Party must have proper interest.
Office of Domestic Gold and Silver Operations.	1. Specific request and a showing of legitimate interest therein. 2. Rulings and opinions of general applicability are available to public upon written request to Director. 3. Neither final or interim opinions are published.	1. Final and interim opinions are not published. 2. Matters involving gold licenses are subject to the requirements of 31 CFR 93.16(b).	None.	1. By requesting the Director of Office of Domestic Gold and Silver Operations. a. Applicant must have an interest in subject matter. 2. If Director in his discretion permits, documents may be sent to applicant, for a reasonable fee.