

sult these in the headquarters of the Judiciary Department or section of their domicile.

The administrative Aeronautical Register shall be maintained at the General Direction of Civil Aeronautics in the manner established by the regulations.

Article 25. There shall be recorded in the Register of Aeronautical Property:

- a) Titles or instruments that recognize, transfer, modify or extinguish a right of use or possession of an aircraft or aircraft engines;
- b) Titles or instruments that constitute, transfer, recognize, modify or extinguish property rights in an aircraft or aircraft engines;
- c) Leases of aircraft or aircraft engines;
- d) Substantial changes that are made in them; and,
- e) Insurance policies taken out on aircraft.

Article 26. Commercial guarantee contracts established for aircraft engines and other equipment and spare parts shall also be recorded in the Register of Aeronautical Property.

Article 27. Temporary injunctions affecting aircraft shall be governed by the applicable provisions of the Commercial and Civil Codes.

Article 28. The nationality and registration marks of an aircraft and modifications and cancellations thereof shall be noted in the margin of the corresponding record of property.

Article 29. The Registration of an aircraft may be cancelled:

- a) For abandonment of the aircraft or of its engines, declared by the General Direction of Civil Aeronautics; and,
- b) In the other cases listed in the Commercial and Civil Codes.

Article 30. There shall be recorded in the administrative Aeronautical Register:

- a) Nationality and registration markings;
- b) Operating certificates, authorizations to perform non-scheduled air transportation service and authorizations to perform private air service for remuneration, and cancellations and modifications thereof;
- c) Airworthiness certificates, licenses of the technical aviation personnel and renewals, suspensions or cancellations thereof; and,
- d) Other documents of an administrative nature that are required to be recorded by this law and the regulations issued thereunder.

Article 31. The General Direction of Civil Aeronautics shall furnish to the Register of Aeronautical Property all data on an aircraft that are found in the Administrative Register and that may be of use to that office: the Aeronautical Property Register shall have the same obligation to the Direction of Civil Aeronautics.

Article 32. The General Direction of Civil Aeronautics, by the appropriate method, shall communicate monthly to the countries with which Honduras has civil aviation treaties, the cancellation of nationality and registration marks affecting any aircraft.

CHAPTER V. AVIATION PERSONNEL

Article 33. The technical aviation personnel shall consist of members of the crew and specialized ground personnel employed in the service of civil aviation.