

If there are reasons to do so, the police may take persons who serve on aircraft to a physician for examination as, for instance, for the taking of specimens of blood and urine, and may assist the physician for this purpose, if necessary.

It is prohibited to employ persons in service on aircraft who are in the condition mentioned in paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Article.

If an aircraft commander or other member of the crew indulges in alcoholic beverages, in a public eating place and the owner or any of his employees know or have reason to assume that he violated the provisions of paragraphs 1 or 3 of this Article, such owner or employee shall do everything possible to prevent the violation, if necessary with the assistance of the police. The chiefs of police shall, in their districts, enforce implementation of this provision by managers of public eating places.

The Minister shall stipulate by regulations the minimum period of leave for persons performing service on aircraft in order to safeguard flight safety which shall be observed by the persons hired for performing services on aircraft, the carriers and the Aviation Board.

Article 53. When a person performing services on an aircraft is injured or becomes ill away from his home, the employer shall pay all expenses for medical care, hospital service and transportation home.

Article 54. The Minister of Aviation shall determine the extent to which the provision of this chapter shall apply to foreign aircraft operated within Icelandic territory.

CHAPTER 6. AIRDROMES AND OTHER INSTALLATIONS FOR AVIATION

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 55. Airdromes and other installations used in aviation shall comply with the requirements established by the Minister of Aviation, unless otherwise provided for by law.

The Minister of Aviation shall issue regulations on the conditions which shall be observed in the operation of airports insofar as there are no special regulations for flights.

The Minister of Aviation shall issue instructions on the operation, maintenance, and supervision of such installations. The official supervising the installations shall also supervise compliance with other provisions of this Chapter and such regulations as may be issued on the basis of this Chapter. The official may demand access to aviation installations and other property to the extent necessary to carry out his responsibilities.

Article 56. The Minister of Aviation may designate air routes and other areas where aviation is subject to special regulations.

Article 57. The duty of the Service for Safety of Aviation is to further the safety of aviation and perform rescue operations. The Minister of Aviation shall issue regulations for this service and stipulate the extent to which the duties may be performed by other than government agencies.

LICENSEES

Article 58. For the establishment and operation of an airdrome for public use, a license shall be granted by the Minister of Aviation in