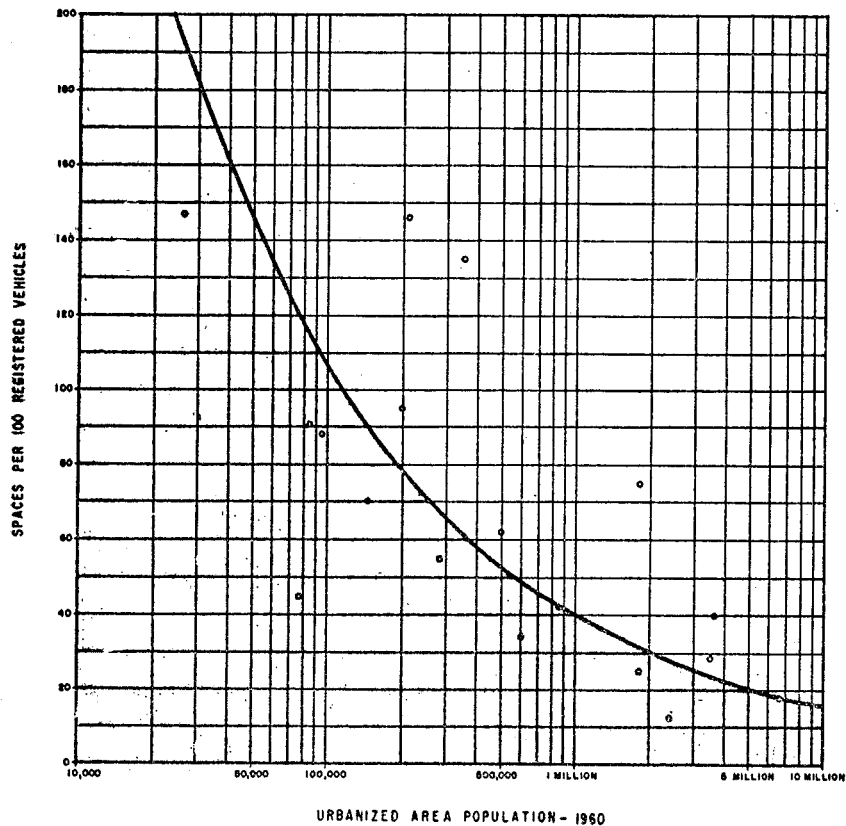

FIGURE 2
CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT PARKING SPACES
PER REGISTERED VEHICLE, 1960

The spaces per registered vehicle decline as the urban area increases in population. When urbanized area population approximates 100,000, central business district parking spaces approximate 110 per 1,000 registered vehicles. When the urbanized area reaches one million people, there are approximately 40 spaces per registered vehicle. For Los Angeles (with an urbanized area population of six million) there are only 18 spaces per 1,000 registered vehicles.
