

in this specialized field of finance is the combination of several strong motivations; namely, (1) the usual and customary desire to produce a profit, (2) betterment of facilities and environment for mankind, and (3) preservation of a virile religious influence through improvement of churches and church institutions.