

Mr. THOMPSON. I would think so.

Mr. LYONS. This is the way they are, you know, they could tell.

Mr. THOMPSON. These are the police?

Mr. LYONS. These are building attendants, I guess, DiGiorgio employees.

Mr. THOMPSON. I see.

Mr. LYONS. And the police were there, you know, to assist them.

Anyway, some more fellows got in as far as the lobby and they were stopped and were talking, were questioned by the police and before too long these people were arrested along with some more union leaders from San Francisco.

After about another 3 or 4 days of demonstrations and pickets out on the sidewalk Mr. DiGiorgio decided to have elections. The Teamsters pulled out of the elections and we went back to Arvin. On November 4, last year, we had elections.

This is just one person's experience, and this is not all of my experience. Like I said, it would take weeks to sit down and tell you everything that happened. A lot more important things than I mentioned happened.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Lyons, let me ask you this. If you are convicted on these trespass charges in your trial later in May, what sentence could you get?

Mr. LYONS. What sentence could I get?

Mr. THOMPSON. Yes. Suppose the judge says, "I have heard your case; you are guilty." What could he sentence you to do?

Mr. LYONS. I don't know. It might be a jail sentence; I don't have any money to pay a fine.

Mr. THOMPSON. What would the fine be in that case?

Mr. LYONS. I think the fine would be around $150 or maybe more.

Mr. THOMPSON. So you might get 150 days or $150?

Mr. LYONS. You could get some time for it, I imagine; 6 months, a year maybe.

Mr. THOMPSON. For sitting in Mr. DiGiorgio's office?

Mr. LYONS. Yes.

Mr. THOMPSON. That is pretty expensive sitting, isn't it?

How many were arrested in this first instance?

Mr. LYONS. There were six altogether, three workers that got to see Mr. DiGiorgio and three union officials in San Francisco.

Mr. THOMPSON. You were arrested twice as I understand it, is that right?

Mr. LYONS. No, I was arrested once and other workers were arrested.

Mr. THOMPSON. Where were you physically when you were arrested?

Mr. LYONS. When I was told I was under arrest?

Mr. THOMPSON. Yes.

Mr. LYONS. I was in Mr. DiGiorgio's office.

Mr. THOMPSON. I see. And the police were there, they came in and arrested you for trespassing?

Mr. LYONS. That is right.

Mr. THOMPSON. In a public building?

Mr. LYONS. That is right.

Mr. THOMPSON. Who is the chief of police, Mr. DiGiorgio?

Mr. LYONS. I think so.

Mr. THOMPSON. It sounds like it.
