The impact of the Job Corps on all men and women who pass through the program is multi-faceted. Attitudes towards others, expectations for the future, a sense of personal dignity, of commitment may all be affected through the Job Corps experience. The most tangible and direct impact is, of course, suggested by the program name, improved employment and schooling capability.

Later in this report what these drop-outs are currently doing will be analyzed, but the starting point in all cases is the pre-Job Corps employment and school situation. Each was asked,

"What were you doing at that time just before you went into the Job Corps?"
