

59 published papers

involving approximately 1700 case histories, each of which reported on thorough blood studies prior to, during, and following therapy.

Not one of these seventeen hundred cases revealed any evidence whatever of blood dyscrasia following administration of the antibiotic.