RIDDLE: WHAT DO APLASTIC ANEMIA, PAROXYSMAL NOCTURNAL HEMOGLOBINURIA (PNH) AND "HYPOPLASTIC" LEUKEMIA HAVE IN COMMON?

(By William Dameshek *)

In 1961, we reported 20 cases of severe aplastic anemia in which infusions of allogenic (homologous) bone marrow had been used as one of the therapeutic methods.¹ Seven of these patients made apparently complete recoveries; whether
