

10688 COMPETITIVE PROBLEMS IN THE DRUG INDUSTRY

43. Beermann, B., K. Hellstrom, A. Rosen and B. Werner, "Elimination of Orally Administered Digoxin and Digitoxin by Thoracic Duct Drainage in Man," European Journal of Clinical Pharmacology, 5:19-21, 1972.
44. Anggard, E. E., L. F. Chew and S. M. Kalman, "A Source of Error in Digoxin Radioimmunoassay," The New England Journal of Medicine, 287, No. 18:935, 1972.
45. Jelliffe, R. W., J. Buell and R. Kalaba, "Reduction of Digitalis Toxicity by Computer-assisted Glycoside Dosage Regimens," Annals of Internal Medicine, 77:891-906, 1972.
46. Redfors, A., "Plasma Digoxin Concentration - Its Relation to Digoxin Dosage and Clinical Effects in Patients with Atrial Fibrillation," British Heart Journal, 34:383-391, 1972.
47. Thompson, A. J., J. Hargis, M. L. Murphy and J. E. Doherty, "Experimental Myocardial Infarction (MI) Serum Levels and Tissue Concentration of ³H Digoxin," Clinical Research, 20:401, 1972.
48. Ojala, K., J. Karjalainen and P. Reissel, "Radioimmunoassay of Digoxin," The Lancet, p. 150, Jan. 15, 1972.
49. Doherty, J. E., "Digoxin Availability "Like It Is"," The New England Journal of Medicine, p. 266, Feb. 3, 1972.
50. Betts, A., "The Application of Serum Digoxin Levels in Clinical Practice," The Journal of the Maine Medical Association, 63:25, 1972.