

from the university in conjunction with the community. This was designed so the community could also assess needs and not just the university go out and evaluate and say this is your problem.

Mr. ERLNBORN. How does the community participate in drafting this program with the university?

Dr. GOERKE. I will go back to the women's program in Miami.

Mr. QUIE. Why don't you stick to the interns?

Dr. GOERKE. This was done by the East-Central Florida State Planning Council which is constituted of seven counties in that area who have gotten together on this planning, zoning, and other areas.

The proposal they submitted was for assistance in institute work in ongoing activity in public planning, zoning, and these areas as related to public administration.

Mr. ERLNBORN. My question was, How did the community get involved?

Dr. GOERKE. The East-Central Florida Planning Council is the community, made up of people living in those counties. This is the leadership in the various areas that have gotten together in working on their problems.

Mr. ERLNBORN. This was originally funded by the Ford Foundation?

Dr. GOERKE. Research funds.

Mr. ERLNBORN. Are any funds coming from the Ford Foundation now?

Dr. GOERKE. I don't believe so.

Mrs. GREEN. Do either of you gentlemen know of any Federal funds through the Office of Education or Office of Economic Opportunity that go to a foundation and then come back to a program?

Dr. GOERKE. Not to my knowledge.

Mr. PITCHELL. The only ones are those that Mr. Frost mentioned. Some universities set up a fund, such as the New York State Foundation, for administering funds for an institution more readily but it is usually a completely public, wholly owned foundation of a university.

Mrs. GREEN. You do not know of funds going to the Ford Foundation or other foundations and then channeled back?

Mr. PITCHELL. I have never heard of it.

Mr. ERLNBORN. I would be curious to know how much of local funds was spent at the time the Ford Foundation was funding this. Was the Ford Foundation funding it wholly or in part?

Dr. GOERKE. I think it was in its entirety but I don't know because we were not in on that. I think it was a 100-percent outright grant.

Mr. ERLNBORN. Do you feel a change in the law to 50-50 participation is not desirable and you would support the 75-25 continuance?

Dr. GOERKE. Very definitely.

Mr. ERLNBORN. Don't you think the local community has to have a deep involvement of its own and should not be designing programs simply because resources are available from the Government?

Dr. GOERKE. I think this will come but one of the critical things is that the time the programs have been off the ground has been roughly 10 months. I am sure the University of Miami in a project they have going down there with several agencies representing
