

PROJECTS

1. The development of international standards for human biological measurements applicable in a wide spectrum of countries. Sponsored by USNC-IUMS. (Dr. W. A. Krehl, University of Iowa, coordinator)
2. Adaptation of human populations from various geographical areas in Israel (Coop. U. M.)
3. Methodology working conference on the ecology of man's food. (Michigan State University, various departments)
4. An evaluation of N. R. C. animal nutrient requirements in various international situations. (Dr. W. H. Pfander, University of Missouri)
5. International Symposium on Biological Control. (Riverside, California, 1967)
6. International Center for Biological Control.
7. Training center for ecological management in pest control.
8. Preparation and publication of indexes of important families of entomophagous insects of the world. (De Bach cooperating)
9. Development of soy-based foods of high nutrition value. (David Hand, Cornell)
10. Improving nonprotein nitrogen utilization for ruminant animals. (Allen Tillman, Oklahoma State)
11. Genetic control of protein quantity and quality in edible legumes for human consumption. (W. F. Keim and H. F. Hodges, Purdue)