POLICIES GOVERNING DISTRIBUTION OF PUBLICATIONS OF THE JOINT ECONOMIC COMMITTEE

The Joint Economic Committee provides economic facts and analyses to keep Congress abreast of developing trends and prospects. It advises Congress as to the appropriate mix of public and private policies most likely to achieve the Nation's economic objectives as set forth in the Employment Act of 1946. It does not consider, draft, or report actual legislation.

The committee makes its services available principally through publications including reports, hearings, and collections of professional materials. It also publishes each month up-to-date data in Economic Indicators, which is prepared for the committee by the Council of Economic Advisers.

These publications make available information about the performance of the economy and various viewpoints on major economic issues which go not only to Congress but also to the executive branch and the general public. In this way, the committee makes significant contributions to economic education.

Because fulfilling the purpose of the committee depends heavily on communicating the results of its work to the Congress, the executive branch, and the public, the committee over a period of years has developed publication policies which are laid down in the rules that follow below. The objectives of these policies are—

- (1) To provide Congress with the best and most accurate economic information possible;
- (2) To improve coordination of public and private economic policies so as to promote achievement of the objectives of the Employment Act of 1946;
- (3) To promote increased economic understanding throughout this country and abroad;
- (4) To insure availability of committee materials in published form at basic reference sources, such as libraries, for permanent research use; and
- (5) To accomplish these aims at the lowest possible overall cost to the taxpayers.

With these aims in view, the staff is directed to distribute committee publications henceforth according to the following rules:

Rule 1.—A mailing list shall be maintained, restricted to individuals and organizations with a continuing interest in public economic policies. This list shall be separated into priority classes as follows:

- A. First priority: Congressional offices, working press, senior Government officials, and former members and staff officials of the Joint Economic Committee.
- B. Second priority: Government agencies, nonprofit libraries, and research organizations.
- C. Third priority: University professors, teachers, and research workers.
- D. Fourth priority: Other individuals and organizations.

Rule 2.—Students (up through graduate level in universities) shall be excluded from the mailing list. It is the committee's policy to insure that students have access to committee publications through stocking of reference shelves in the libraries of schools and colleges.

Rule 3.—The executive director may place officials of foreign governments and foreign institutions on the mailing list when this is of mutual benefit and they can be serviced within budgetary limits.

Rule 4.—The mailing shall be kept current and in line with committee objectives by appropriate measures, including a poll of the list once a year.

Rule 5.—Before public distribution of any publication in accordance with these rules, a copy shall first be sent to those individuals and organizations who have directly contributed submissions for the record either as witnesses or as authors.

Rule 6.—The mailing list provided for under rule 1 above shall be used as a basis for mailing out automatically copies of the following items:

- (a) The committee's annual report;
- (b) The committee's annual list of publications;
- (c) Publications whose size allows the committee, within its regular printing allotment, to receive adequate copies to cover the entire mailing list; and
- (d) Notices of the availability of other reports and hearings.

Rule 7.—All other publications (except Economic Indicators which is covered under rule 11 below) shall be distributed first to those in class A on the mailing list; then to those in class B. If any supply remains, the other classes shall be notified and requests filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Rule 8.—Where for any reason the committee's supply does not permit serving all who request a publication, some form of notification shall be sent to all who cannot be accommodated with copies, indicating the availability and price of the publication at the Superintendent of Documents.

Rule 9.—Requests for publications shall be submitted in writing and telephone requests shall be accepted only from Members of Congress and its officials, or from members of the executive agencies where the need for urgency does not permit the use of the mails.

Rule 10.—Whenever the usual supply will be too small to service the mailing list under the above rules—particularly the annual report—it shall be the duty of the executive director (in advance of publication) to prepare, for introduction by the chairman and the vice chairman in the two Houses, an appropriate joint resolution providing for such additional numbers of copies as may be necessary to enable the particular item to be distributed in accordance with these rules.

Rule 11.—Economic Indicators is provided for by law under Senate Joint Resolution 55 which allows the committee approximately 700 copies each month in addition to the other automatic distribution. These copies are to be used solely for supplying members of the working press, the Council of Economic Advisers, other Government officials (especially those contributing to the preparation of Economic Indicators), ex-members of the Joint Economic Committee, and former officers of the committee staff, to the extent that this is possible within the printing allotment. The only exception to this rule will be single copies which may be mailed out on a one-time-only basis to a single individual to provide a sample copy with instructions as to how the subscriber may apply for the publication from the Superintendent of Documents.

Rule 12.—Whenever operation of these rules results in an unforeseen frustration of the committee's objectives set forth in the introduction to these rules, the executive director is authorized to make a temporary exception, which shall be promptly reported to the chairman, for review and possible proposal of amendment to these rules.

Rule 13.—This policy statement shall be printed and distributed to the Members of the Congress and to the general public so that the committee's policies shall be generally known.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF PUBLICATIONS

Single copies of publications, denoted by a dagger (†), are available without charge from the Joint Economic Committee, New Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, on written request. The numbers in brackets preceding each publication should be used only when ordering single copies from the committee.

Publications followed by a Superintendent of Documents catalog number and price are available in quantity from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 (Telephone: Area Code 202—541—3311). A check, a money order, or Superintendent of Documents coupons for the full amount must accompany your order. Several weeks should be allowed for delivery, but telephone orders made by those having money on deposit with the Superintendent of Documents are processed within a few days.

Publications without a dagger (†) are unavailable from the committee, and those without a price are out of print at the Government Printing Office.

All publications are committee prints unless otherwise indicated.
