

with particular portions or aspects of the budget, find the Appendix most useful. Members of the financial press have entered ardent pleas for continuation of the budget Appendix as part of the material released at the same time as the budget document.

It is the Commission's hope that the review by the Bureau of the Budget, and the cooperation of the Appropriations Committees, will result in sufficient streamlining of the information in the Appendix so that it will be possible to continue releasing it with the budget or with only minimal delay. Piecemeal appearance of the vast store of budget information contained in the Appendix, over an extended period after release of the budget document, would be a poor substitute.
