Under present circumstances, the United States should seek conversion of foreign currencies into dollars at the very earliest date. It may be that planned U.S. programs will eventually use up the stockpiles of currencies, but the need for immediate improvement in our payments balance is so evident that currency needs for future programs could wisely be reviewed and met when the need or request for them actually occurs.

Meanwhile, the currencies should be available for immediate conversion to dollars by means of tourist dollar exchange.

Under Public Law 480 transactions already consummated, local currencies are available and approved for tourist dollar exchange in these "nonexcess" countries but our Government has not implemented the program.

Local currencies available for U.S. use on Jan. 1, 1967

Afghanistan (But tourist-exchange not implemented)	e garagen en e
riguanistan	$300,000
Brazil ² Chile China	· (¹)
China Colombia	2, 400, 000
Colombia	2, 800, 000
EthiopiaGhana	(¹)
Ghana Greece	400, 000
GICCCC	400 00
rectand	100 000
o oracin	/11
PeruSyrian Arab Republic 2	1, 100, 000
Syrian Arab Republic ²	(¹)
Turkey 2 Urugnay	100, 000
Uruguay Vietnam	2, 600, 000
Vietnam	(¹)
	4, 100, 000
(16) Less than $50,000	14 000 000
¹ Less than $50,000. ² Classified as "near-excess" currency country.	11, 200, 000
To gummania
To summarize currencies available for existing touris change program:	t-dollar ex-
II S -owned local gummon sign one of the formula currencies presently available for purchase in a U.Sowned local currencies presently available for purchase in a total of 7 countries by U.S. tourists and other U.S. travelers
under the tourist-dollar exchange program	$112,458,500
under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or poor excess."	$112, 458, 500
under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet	$112, 458, 500
and other U.S. travelers under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury	$112, 458, 500
Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury
Available for purchase in 5 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury Lawrence in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" count	$112, 458, 500 10, 100, 000
Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have an	10, 100, 000
Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" countries	10, 100, 000 14, 900, 000
available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" countries 28 countries	10, 100, 000 14, 900, 000 137, 458, 500
under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" countries 28 countries In three "excess currency" countries, the tourist-dollar excess.	10, 100, 000 14, 900, 000 137, 458, 500
under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" countries 28 countries In three "excess currency" countries, the tourist-dollar exgram has not been approved by the local government, as for	10, 100, 000 14, 900, 000 137, 458, 500 change pro- llows:
under the tourist-dollar exchange program Available for purchase in 5 additional "excess or near-excess currency" countries under the program but not implemented as yet by U.S. Treasury Available for purchase in 16 additional countries which have approved the program but where U.S. Treasury has not implemented it because countries are classified as "nonexcess currency" countries 28 countries	10, 100, 000 14, 900, 000 137, 458, 500 change pro- llows: