

Here is a view of light posts. Here you have an easy-knockdown light pole and concrete stanchions protecting it. They have been hit.

This is what I asked the Office of Highway Safety to clear. I asked them to get a project going to taper this curb off. This is a killer. You could be riding along, 60 miles an hour, and if you have a tapered curb you would get a second chance. But once you hit this, it causes unnecessary damage, and maybe three or four cars are involved. If this curb is tapered, and we would clear all this junk in that gore, it would be much safer.
