

This is the same scene now, showing this double guardrail system that goes on and on into the distance. There is 7 miles of it. We will not see cross median accidents in this area any more, and I am sure that this is a truly lifesaving construction area.

This is another expressway in the Ann Arbor area and the "Exit" sign is well marked. The gore area behind it is fairly clear. Although this one is fairly clear, they often seem to just dump the earth in there and flatten it a little bit and this is quite hilly. It is not as flat as this area to the right of the roadway [indicating], as I will show you in some other pictures.
