

In this manner, you see. Nobody would ever hit them up there. You can save a lot of money.

Here you see the 10'' by 10'' wood pole. New York City is tearing them down by the thousands and replacing them with aluminum poles. This is Long Island Parkway where they are installing them in front of guardrails.

