

car from knocking the pole down anyway. They get through, damage the car, the passengers go through the windshield, and the light pole goes down anyway, as you can see here.

And I feel the least we can do is go back and rip all of this out. This is on an Interstate highway and I do not think you need it here.

