

Here you can see that the guardrail is not even damaged, but yet the thing is snapped off. Some of the material has been used on our Interstate highways, too. If they cannot hold back cars, how do you expect them to hold back trucks?

