

The property on the other side of these poles belongs to the State, so that is a poor excuse. They just are not thinking. Anybody sliding along these rails will come to a dead stop.

Thousands of people are being killed and injured every year running into telephone poles and light poles. All you have to do is read the papers. And we are doing brand new jobs just like this. We have the material there to do the right job but we are putting the poles in front of the guardrails.

There is another location. This is silly.
