

As fast as they put up the material, before they even finish the job, the cars are running through and damaging it.

Here's another area where they are breaking right through.

