

What they do, they place the beams along the side— to discourage the people. If you get tangled with these, you get in trouble, but they want to keep you off there. They are not really thinking.

