

shoulder [indicating] and there is no guardrail over on this side, the northbound shoulder.

And in checking the accident records, I found that in April of last year this vehicle hit this bridge pier, killed three people and injured another.

A few minutes ago I showed you a sign. And in the background was this particular bridge. There are a lot of things to look at here. We are approaching this from the south, heading toward Maryland. And for orientation purposes, this is just north of Dulles Airport. There is a creek which passes under both spans of this bridge.
