

Mr. PRISK. This rail runs about 25 inches high at most locations where it was measured. Here is a section head-on, on the job, just beyond the light pole. As you can see, the light pole was set barely a foot and a half off the edge of the shoulder and the rail about 1 foot off, with no special treatment at all in this particular instance.

