

This is again the standard type installation, blocked out, through-out, and 6-foot-3 spacings.

This completes Nevada and we move next to a location in Indiana, where we looked at I-69.

This is a portion that runs between U.S. 24 and U.S. 224 just south of Fort Wayne, Ind.

When you move to Indiana, you find this type of guardrail installation. It is not blocked out. There are no washers on the joints.
