

Here, as a truck stops, you can see something of the horizontal dimensions that we are talking about; the clearances from the side of the truck to these poles is so little that you might think that picture was staged. But that man just stopped there and we happened to get a picture of him.

