

These posts would go down much more easily and with far less violent consequences as far as a collision is concerned. The same thing is used, doubled up, two of them, for speed limit signs.

