

because of it being on an elevated structure, it does create an unusual and especially difficult problem.

Many times walls in that position obscure the sight from one car to another, which is another serious handicap that concrete introduces.

Here is a view of another one at a somewhat greater distance. There is a little bit of advance notice out here in terms of some lane markings and a little island out in front. Otherwise you do not have much notice of that hazard.

Here is the portion that is just west of Oklahoma City. It is under construction and is contiguous with the projects we looked at, and here
