

And here we have the gore that you saw as we were looking at signs in particular. This, again, could be relieved entirely by the plan that is now in mind, which is to replace these two structures, both of them having center supports in the gore, with the single structure moved back toward the camera a couple hundred feet.

This is a pretty formidable thing to run into.

