

lose the shoulder at that place. And here again is a discontinued shoulder. People are apt to break down at almost any point on the moving lane. It is unpredictable.

Here is the kind of condition we have in Ohio on one of the entrance ramps where, with weather conditions, this soil is rutted out very badly. And this is not a traversable shoulder. This is a ramp, of course, here [indicating].

In Utah, you have somewhat the same condition that we saw in Oklahoma City. This is Salt Lake City here, and here is the shoulder interrupted again at that point.

