

This is still another view of that side slope condition that we were looking at a moment ago.

Slopes here are such that if the dirt were readily available, right-of-way is setting back in here, and this could have been perhaps eased off to the advantage of anyone that might move on that side slope condition.

