

1. DCB is shipped to the United States with ocean freight estimated at 6 cents to 7 cents per pound to major point of entry.

2. Both the foreign and domestic product is sold on a 100% amine basis. The foreign and domestic products are fully comparable. For 100% amine, the United States import duty based on an American selling price per pound of $1.33, is 3 cents ad valorem +22% of U.S. selling price, the total charge being approximately $0.323 per pound.

3. The estimated dockage charge in the United States is 1 to 2 cents per pound.

4. The estimated selling commission to U.S. trade is 5 to 7 cents per pound.

5. The estimated warehousing charges to U.S. user would be 4 to 5 cents per pound.

6. The estimated delivery charge to a U.S. user would be 2 to 3 cents per pound.

7. Terms of sale are net 30 days.

8. The estimated insurance runs 2 to 3 cents per pound.

Adding together all the costs of exporting DCB into the American commerce, which are minimum figures, a total of $0.523 is reached.
