

among non-defense agencies. For this reason, the Coast Guard engages in a variety of missions such as enforcement of treaties and boundaries at sea, and oceanographic research efforts, which could not be discharged by any other agency without wasteful duplication of the Coast Guard's facilities. The DOT policy in this case is to support these projects to the degree allowed by the allocation of DOT resources.