

To obtain information as to how this unit might be applied to any specific job, shipbuilders and operators may write for a questionnaire which when received by us properly filled in, will enable us to quote approximate costs.

Illustrating how the macerator and sterilizing tanks may be located on different levels. The hypochlorinator may be placed in another place than on the sterilizing tank. On small jobs our positive displacement, electric hypochlorinator, Type PD, may be used. In such case the check valve and vent and vacuum breaker, above mentioned, must be used.
