2 THE COURT: First I want to thank you all
3 for coming today, and don't come back in a group
4 like this again.

5 Secondly, I want to tell you that one of my 6 law clerks commented upon the fact that the clerk was 7 amazed at the youth of all of the attorneys involved 8 in this case. And I think that's marvelous. Such 9 young men involved in the case, except for the man
10 at the end of the table, assured that he was a con-11 temporary of mine, as a matter of fact. But that 12 is true. That says something for the Bar.

13 Just so the record is amply clear, I don't 14 intend to decide anything today other than the motions
15 for transfer. I don't intend to deal with any col-16 lateral issues, and certainly with none of the 17 constitutional issues involved in the Legislation.

18 And I want to make it amply clear as well 19 that the findings in the five cases before the 20 Court are fact-specific. They are not intended to 21 establish an exhaustive definition of the meaning
22 of manifest injustice. And I stress that because I
23 know that other municipalities are waiting to hear 24 the results of these first five cases here, as they 25 are in matters pending before the other Mount Laurel

1 judges.

2 I think it is worthy to place the transfer
3 provisions in a proper perspective. Counsel have, 4 as one might expect, argued at both extremes, from 5 the proposition that any transfer is manifestly un-6 just in these cases because of a host of reasons,
7 including some vested rights, delay and so forth;
8 and on the other side, there is the most extreme 9 argument that no transfer should be denied because 10 of the need for statewide uniformity, the alleged 11 greater speed in the executive-legislative process, 12 and the Supreme Court's preference for a legislative 13 solution.

14 It seems clear that the legislation itself
15 evidences through Section 16, which provides for 16 these motions, and elsewhere, including Section 19, 17 which deals with remands, Section 23, which deals 18 with Court supervision of phasing, Section 12B, which 19 relates to the interplay between the Court and the 20 Council concerning regional contribution agreements, 21 that the Legislature did not intend to exclude 22 totally the Court from the process.

23 The legislation evidences an effort to strike
24 a balance between the desire to place the housing 25 issue squarely in the legislative-executive arena,

1 and the need to recognize that, in some cases, 2 because of fact-specific circumstances, it would 3 be inappropriate, if not unlawful, to subject these 4 cases to the Council on Affordable Housing process.

5 And finally, as part of placing the issue
6 in a proper perspective, something should be said
7 about the emphasis by defendants on the oft-stated
8 preference by the Court, our Supreme Court, and this 9 Court, for whatever that is worth, that these matters, 10 the housing matters, be left to the Legislature.

11 First, it is obviously clear that that's 12 what Mount Laurel says, and that's what the Supreme 13 Court wishes. That's what Mount Laurel I said, and 14 that's what Mount Laurel II said. Ten years later, 15 it still is the desire of the Court, and it should 16 in fact motivate all appropriate deference to the 17 legislation.

18 However, it must be noted that the Court's 19 patience and the legislative default has created 20 some circumstances in which it would no longer be 21 viable to vindicate the constitutional obligation
22 by a total abdication of the legislative-executive 23 process; and indeed, Section 16 of the Act recognizes 24 that.

25 Now, preference for a legislative-executive

1 solution cannot in all cases be translated to a
2 circumstance where the constitutional imperative
3 of Mount Laurel would be violated. At a minimum,
4 the manifest injustice exception must contemplate
5 that we avoid the situation in which a transfer 6 would seriously undermine the constitutional im-
7 perative which the legislation itself must satisfy
8 if the legislation is not to experience a consti-
9 tutional infirmity.

10 To that extent, the term, "manifest in-11 justice," must be interpreted in such a manner 12 as to support the fundamental goal of the Act, which 13 I perceive to be the satisfaction of a constitutional 14 mandate in a reasonable manner.

15 Next, I would like to turn briefly to the 16 wording of Section 16 itself, and make some comments
17 with respect thereto. I need not repeat the pro-
18 visions of Section 16, except for the fact that 19 there is a lot of reference in the briefs as to 20 Section 16A and 16B; and, of course, there is no
21 Section 16A in the statute. There is only a 22 Section 16B.

23 So just so it is entirely clear what we are 24 talking about, we are talking about that section 25 which precedes Section 16B and reads: For those

1 exclusionary zoning cases instituted more than 2 sixty days before the effective date of this Act, 3 any party to the litigation may file a motion with 4 the Court to seek a transfer to the Council.

5 In determining whether or not to transfer,
6 the Court shall consider whether or not the transfer
7 would result in a manifest injustice to any party 8 to the litigation.

9 Now, it is to be noted that the pertinent
10 section does not define transfer, it obviously 11 doesn't define manifest injustice, and it doesn't 12 define party.

13 The language I have quoted starting with the 14 words, quote, "Any party to the litigation may 15 file a motion with the Court to seek transfer," 16 unquote, replaced a different standard in the prior 17 draft of the Act which reads in part, and I quote:
18 "No exhaustion of the review and mediation pro-
19 cedures established in Section 14 and 15 of this 20 Act shall be required unless the Court determines 21 that a transfer of the case to the Council is 22 likely to facilitate and expedite the provisions
23 of a realistic opportunity for low and moderate
24 income housing."

25 Now, it is by no means clear what the

1 Legislature intended to accomplish by the change
2 from a standard of facilitating and expediting the 3 provision of low-cost housing to a standard of 4 manifest injustice to any party. The briefs argue
5 in all directions on that issue as well, and I
6 don't have to summarize them.

7 I believe that it is fair to say that the 8 final version more explicitly emphasizes the 9 interests of the parties, whereas the prior version 10 more explicitly emphasizes the expedition of the 11 provision of lower income housing.

12 One cannot assume that the change in wording 13 did not intend a change in meaning. Beyond that, 14 however, absent some clear legislative history, 15 which seems absent, it is extremely difficult to 16 discern whether the Legislature sought to limit
17 or broaden the Court's discretion, or whether it 18 sought to limit or broaden the potential for trans-
19 fer of cases which are more than sixty days old.
20 And I would submit that strong interpretive argu-
21 ments can be made on both sides.

22 I do not intend by this oral opinion to 23 either reconcile the language or to give a complete 24 definition to the term, "manifest injustice." If 25 I did intend to do that, it wouldn't be an oral

1 opinion, and I certainly would take a great deal
2 of detail in selling that issue out.

3 That term, to me, tends to be fact-specific,
4 and I therefore deem it more appropriate to define 5 it in the context of each of the cases that appear 6 before me today, and those which are scheduled for 7 the next several weeks.

8 In that process, I believe that its full 9 meaning will evolve as those motions are heard and 10 as the motions now pending before the other Mount 11 Laurel judges are heard and decided.

12 In cases at what I have referred to as the 13 factual extremes, the term will be relatively easy
14 to interpret. Like obscenity, to paraphrase Justice
15 Stewart, you should be able to know it when you see 16 it.

17 And finally, in terms of definition, as 18 noted above, the statute does not define what is 19 meant by the term, "transfer," or the term, "party."

20 Now, as to transfer, the issue might be 21 relevant to the question of manifest injustice to 22 the extent that if a case is transferred in its 23 present posture, with the full record, and the Council
24 being bound by issues decided, so to speak, the law 25 of the case, the potential for delay and the

1 possible cost of relitigation might be reduced.

2 The procedural scheme which the statute
3 reveals to me will be discussed shortly. But I 4 must say that on an initial reading, without 5 ~~emphasizing~~ this issue, I do not believe that it 6 discloses an intent to bind the Council with what 7 has happened in this court, <sup>ent</sup> seems to me to be 8 contrary to the legislative purpose in enactment 9 of the statute, and it certainly is not refuted by 10 the clear language of the statute.

11 The defendant municipalities stress that 12 the statute has established the potential for a 13 fresh, new and comprehensive approach. And if there 14 is a failure to agree on a housing element, mediation
15 replaces litigation, pursuant to Section 17.

16 At least the Urban League plaintiff and 17 some of the other plaintiffs argue that the record
18 and the decided issues must follow the case, al-19 though it's not clear how that would fit into the 20 legislative scheme created by the Act.

21 In any event, the cases before me today
22 do not require me to decide that specific issue.

23 Now, as to the term, "party," I should note 24 that both -- some of the plaintiff builders and 25 the defendant municipalities have dealt rather

1 gingerly and, in the case of some of the de-
2 fendants, almost cavalierly, with the interests
3 of lower income households in Mount Laurel litiga-4 tion.

5 Some of the builders have stressed the 6 manifest injustice of a transfer in part on the 7 grounds that they have a vested right, in effect, 8 to build homes for the poor. I think to that 9 extent, they inadequately assert their representa-
10 tion of the poor in this litigation if they don't 11 go beyond saying that.

12 The defendant municipalities have followed
13 suit even to the extent that one brief concedes
14 that the Court should take into account the interest 15 of all of the parties, including, quote, "the 16 hidden beneficiaries."

17 Now, it should have long since been clear
18 that the status of lower income households rises
19 far above the category of hidden or third-party 20 beneficiaries in Mount Laurel actions. Even where 21 an Urban League or a Civic League, if that's the 22 name now, or a civic group or another non-builder
23 plaintiff is not involved, the lower income class
24 must be considered a full party to this action.
25 The prospect of the builder's remedy is offered as a

1 quid pro quo to sue on behalf of those persons whom 2 the remedy will benefit.

3 Our Supreme Court has described Mount Laurel
4 actions as institutional or public law litigation.
5 It is at page 288 and 289 of the Decision and in 6 Footnote 43. They are brought to vindicate resistance
7 to a constitutional obligation to the affected 8 group. In that sense, they are class actions, and 9 the class is very much a party.

10 Judge Skillman has said it well in Morris
11 County Fair Housing Council vs. Boonton Township, 12 197 New Jersey 359, at pages 365 and '66, where he 13 says, and I quote:

14 "A Mount Laurel case may appropriately <sup>be</sup> viewed 15 as a representative action which is binding on non-16 parties. The constitutional right protected by 17 the Mount Laurel doctrine is the right of lower 18 income persons to seek housing without being subject
19 to economic discrimination caused by exclusionary
20 zoning.

21 "The public advocate and such organizations
22 as the Fair Housing Council and the N.A.A.C.P.
23 have standing to pursue Mount Laurel litigation
24 on behalf of lower income persons.

25 Developers and property owners are also

1 conferred standing to pursue Mount Laurel litigation.
2 In fact, the Supreme Court has held that any in-3 dividual demonstrating an interest in or any organi-
4 zation that has the objective of securing lower 5 income housing opportunities in a municipality will 6 have standing to sue such municipality on Mount 7 Laurel grounds."

8 And he is quoting from Mount Laurel at that 9 point, at page 337, where the Court says that, in 10 referring to lower income people, that they are the 11 group that has the, quote, "greatest interest," 12 unquote, in ending exclusionary zoning.

13 Continuing from Judge Skillman's opinion, and 14 I quote: However, such litigants are granted 15 standing not to pursue their own interests but,
16 rather, as representatives of lower income persons 17 whose constitutional rights are allegedly being 18 violated by the exclusionary zoning.

19 Therefore, it is amply clear to me that the 20 Court must look at lower income persons as at least 21 an equal party to the litigation, even if I choose 22 to ignore the Supreme Court suggestion that they 23 have the greatest interest in the litigation, and 24 that is so doing, I have to consider their interests 25 from many standpoints, including but not limited to

1 the delays which were involved in the vindication
2 of their rights, the fact that every day in which 3 this Court delays resolution of these cases, that 4 they remain in substandard housing, and that they 5 will continue there until these issues are resolved.

6 We have to consider the absence or diminished
7 availability of the remedies to enforce compliance
8 where cases are near completion or housing is im-9 minent. We have to consider whether housing is 10 imminent. We have to consider to what extent a 11 transfer would relegate low and moderate income 12 persons to reliance upon voluntary compliance by 13 municipalities for any extended period.

14 And those are just some of the factors that 15 the Court would take into account.

16 Now, before turning to the actual factual
17 analysis of each case here today, something should 18 be said about the consequences of a transfer as it 19 relates to the potential for delay or expedition of 20 the process which leads to the production of lower 21 income housing.

22 This issue has been heavily briefed and,
23 notwithstanding the difference in conclusions, the 24 parties seem to agree that speed in the resolution 25 of the issues and expediting lower income housing

1 is at least one very important element involved in 2 the definition of manifest injustice.

3 As a practical matter, then, the language
4 of the prior draft of Section 16 becomes involved 5 in the analysis. Will the transfer facilitate and 6 expedite the provision of a realistic opportunity?

7 I am not suggesting that I have read that 8 section back into the act, but only that the analysis
9 of plaintiffs, indeed the defendants, have in fact 10 read it back into the Act, and I think properly so.

11 I should also point out that it is not back 12 into the Act as the exclusive definition, but rather,
13 as I have indicated, an important element of mani-14 fest injustice. Presumably in the context of 15 manifest injustice to the parties, we are asking 16 whether or not the transfer will aid the lower in-17 come people by speeding a day when the realistic 18 opportunity for housing will arrive.

19 And it is at this point that the arguments 20 of the parties diverge, the parties claiming the 21 transfer -- the plaintiffs claim the transfer will 22 cause delay; and, of course, the municipalities
23 claim it will cause expedition.

24 Part of that rests upon what reasonable 25 time span we can assume will be involved under the

1 Act. As we know, it became effective on July 2nd,
2 1985; that Section 5A creates the Council, and 5D
3 requires the governor to nominate the members within 4 thirty days.

5 The nominations have been made, and I don't 6 suppose it matters a great deal that they were a 7 little late. But they have not yet been confirmed, 8 unless there's some late action of which I am not 9 aware.

10 Section 8 requires the Council to propose 11 procedural rules within four months after the 12 confirmation of its last member initially appointed, 13 or by January 1, 1986, whichever is earlier.

14 Given that the Council members have not been 15 confirmed, it is likely that that confirmation will 16 occur late in this year, and that procedural rules
17 can be expected by May 1, 1986. I have reached
18 that conclusion given the fact that the Legislature
19 is not in session during another important time
20 span during the month of October, in anticipation 21 of November 5th.

22 Now, Section 9A requires any municipality
23 which elects to submit a housing plan to the Council
24 to notify the Council of its intent to participate 25 within four months of the effective date of the 1 Act.

2 Section 7 requires the Council to adopt
3 criteria and guidelines for the housing plan within 4 seven months of the confirmation of the last member 5 initially appointed, or January 1, 1986. Assuming 6 confirmation of membership is accomplished near the 7 end of this year, the Council will have until ap-8 proximately August 1, '86 to adopt guidelines and 9 criteria.

10 Section 9A gives the municipality five
11 months from the date of adoption of the criteria 12 to file its housing element. If the criteria were 13 not adopted until August 1, 1986, the municipality
14 would then have until January 1, 1987.

15 Section 13 provides that a municipality may 16 file for substantive certification of its plan at 17 any time within a six-year period from the filing 18 of the housing element.

19 Nothing seems to expressly require expeditious 20 filing for a substantive approval, assuming it is 21 requested. The township has to give notice within 22 an unspecified period of the requested certification.
23 Once public notice is given, the forty-five day
24 objection period begins to run. And it is not clear 25 from the Act that there is a time limitation on the

1 Council to act on the requested certification.

2 Thus, though the objection period is forty-3 five days, the review could be longer, and it might 4 be expected, in fact, it would normally make common 5 sense, not to commence the review until after the 6 objection period expires.

7 I am going to assume, however, that the town
8 petitions for substantive certification on January 1, 9 1987; that it simultaneously gives notice on that 10 day; and that the Council doesn't wait for the 11 objection period to expire to start the review pro-12 cess.

13 None of those assumptions comport with the 14 Court's experience of usual procedure; but, nonethe-
15 less, I think it is best to assume the best-case
16 alternative. And the procedure would, nonetheless, 17 consume forty-five days, because that's the ob-
18 jection period. And that would take the processing 19 to approximately February 15th, 1987.

20 Now we have got the end of the forty-five 21 day period, the Council is prepared to grant
22 substantive certification on the theory that it
23 has already reviewed the plan. The town must adopt 24 its ordinance in forty-five days, or by April 1, 25 1987, under the assumptions which I have made.

1 If at the end of the initial forty-five day
2 period the Council denies certification or con-
3 ditionally approves it, the municipality has sixty 4 days to refile. That would be until April 15th,
5 1987, and the Council then has another unspecified
6 period to review.

7 Assume that the Council reviews it on the 8 same day that it is filed, which again flies in the 9 face of human experience, and grants substantive 10 certification. The municipality then has an ad-11 ditional forty-five days to adopt its implementing 12 ordinance; and thus, the procedure might extend 13 to June 1, 1987.

14 On the other hand, if an objection is filed, 15 it must be done within forty-five days of the 16 public notice. And assuming that that notice date
17 expires on March 15th, 1987, mediation and review
18 is commenced, no time limit is set on that process.

19 I will assume for the purposes of developing 20 a reasonable scenario that a minimum of sixty days
21 is required. That would take us, then, to April 15th, 22 1987. If mediation is unsuccessful, the matter is 23 then referred to the Administrative Law Judge, who 24 has ninety days to issue a decision unless the 25 period is extended for good cause.

1 I will assume that it is not extended, and 2 that the procedure could thus be completed by 3 July 15th, 1987. The Administrative Law Judge
4 findings are then forwarded to the Housing Council
5 pursuant to Section 15, with his record.

6 The Act becomes silent as to what happens
7 at that point, but the Administrative Procedure
8 Act would then take over, I assume, and Section 9 1:1-16.5 would allow the Council forty-five days
10 to act on the decision by accepting, rejecting, 11 modifying, or remanding the initial decision to 12 the Administrative Law Judge.

13 Absent a remand, this then could extend the 14 time involved to September 1, 1987.

15 Now finally, before reaching a conclusion
16 with respect to these motions, it would be useful 17 to briefly summarize the status of each of the 18 cases before the Court today.

19 With respect to Warren, the AMG complaint 20 was filed on December 31, 1980. Skytop was per-21 mitted to intervene in May of 1981, and Timber
22 filed a complaint in July of 1981.

23 Judge Meredith rendered a decision after 24 trial dated May 27th, 1982, invalidating the zoning 25 ordinance and directing rezoning.

1           The township adopted a new ordinance in 2           December of '82. The plaintiff -- the plaintiffs 3           AMG and Skytop were granted leave to appeal -- I'm 4           sorry -- granted leave to file a supplementary 5           complaint challenging the new ordinance, and they 6           did so on January 17th, 1983, in apparent anticipa-
7           tion of Mount Laurel II, I guess, three days before.

8           There was a consolidation of several actions
9           by this Court in July of 1983, and the first Mount 10          Laurel trial to commence was started in January of 11          1984, and it lasted for twenty-One days. We not 12          only consumed vast quantities of time, but vast 13          quantities of coffee and danish.

14          The AMG opinion then was issued on July 16th, 15          1984, and interim judgment was entered on August 1, 16          1984, which set the fair share, ordered rezoning
17          within ninety days, found the plaintiffs entitled 18          to a builder's remedy subject to the issue of 19          suitability.

20          An ordinance was submitted in December of 21          1984, and being reviewed by the Court Master, who 22          has suspended his review pending determination of 23          this transfer motion.

24          What's left to be done in Warren Township
25          is, of course, the Master's completion of the review;

1 a compliance hearing, if necessary; the preparation
2 of a revised ordinance; an ordinance adoption, if 3 not already accomplished.

4 I would estimate that that procedure could 5 be accomplished in approximately four months.

6 The Cranbury Township timetable is similar 7 in some of its respects to the other cases; and to 8 that extent, I will not repeat.

9 The Urban League filed suit against Cranbury
10 and the other three defendants here today in July 11 of 1974. Judge Furman signed an implementing 12 judgment, or a judgment implementing his opinion,
13 on July 9, 1976. The Appellate Division reversed --
14 I have the date right here -- on January 20th, 1979.
15 That's ironic. Three years to the date, if I have 16 that correctly.

17 And the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court
18 did whatever you'd like to describe it did with the 19 case, but it certainly remanded it here. I read
20 part of it as an affirmance of Judge Furman's
21 findings and a reversal of the Appellate Division,
22 but certainly a remand for a consideration in terms
23 of Mount Laurel II. It found expressly that certain 24 issues had been demonstrated by the plaintiff.

25 We then engaged in an eighteen-day trial. I

1 did not go back to the minutes to check, but I
2 believe it is clear that South Plainfield didn't 3 engage in all of it. At some point, it left the 4 scene, and at some point, Monroe chose not to 5 participate, and I don't mean settled, but chose 6 not to participate.

7 I issued an opinion in July of 1984, in-8 validating the Cranbury ordinance. I determined
9 region, regional need and fair share. We set about 10 compliance. We are at the stage where all experts'
11 reports are in, we are awaiting the compliance
12 hearing principally as to the issues of site suit-13 ability in the broadest sense.

14 And I mean that as it relates to builder's 15 remedy, as it relates to the issues of preservation, 16 agricultural preservation, historic preservation, 17 phasing.

18 But there are no apparent significant issues 19 with respect to other aspects of compliance, at 20 least that I am aware of.

21 What is left to be done there is a com-
22 pliance hearing, which I have indicated earlier
23 has only not moved forward because of the Court's 24 schedule; a Master's revision of the ordinance if 25 it isn't approved in its present form.

1 I can indicate for the record that if the 2 matter were retained here, it would be the first 3 compliance hearing of any length to be scheduled.
4 It would be started in October and should be com-
5 pleted in November, and any necessary revision could 6 be accomplished in sixty days. Ordinance adoption, 7 if not already accomplished, could then be accomplished
8 in another thirty days.

9 It appears to me that the case can be com-
10 pleted before year's end, or certainly by January.

11 The South Plainfield timetable with regard 12 to the early part of the litigation tracks that of 13 Cranbury. Ultimately, a voluntary stipulation was 14 presented to the Court with the purpose of having 15 the Court enter an order, on May 10th, 1984.

16 A fair share was reduced dramatically, and 17 a fair share can be considered either six hundred 18 or nine hundred. But even at the nine hundred 19 figure, it was reduced almost by fifty percent over 20 the prior figure. Realistically, I think it's a 21 fair share of six hundred, so that, of course, the 22 reduction is even greater.

23 The Plaintiff received a summary judgment
24 based on the voluntary stipulation. An ordinance 25 was adopted under protest. The plaintiff Urban

1 League, to the best of my knowledge, approves the 2 ordinance except for some technical problem con-
3 cerning the specificity of the parcels involved in 4 rezoning. And to the best of my knowledge, the 5 review by Ms. Lerman has not raised any problem, 6 either. The ordinance is in a form, according to 7 her communications, acceptable to her.

8 And what is left to be done in that case is 9 a very short compliance hearing, since everybody
10 agrees; and that could certainly be accomplished 11 within the next thirty days.

12 In the case of Monroe, again, the early 13 status of that case tracks the other two. That 14 also was governed by my letter opinion of July 27th.
15 There was an implementing judgment in that one in 16 August of 1984.

17 The opinion was July 27th, 1984. It set 18 a fair share. It ordered rezoning. After some 19 difficulties, the township retained a planning
20 expert, and the township submitted a compliance
21 package on March 28th, 1985.

22 That one could have been moved as well,
23 except before the Court got to it, it got diverted 24 into collateral issues, including the failure of 25 the township, the refusal of the township to pay the

1 Court-appointed Master, putting aside its refusal
2 to pay its counsel.

3 Furthermore, while the plan was being con-
4 sidered by the Court, the township approved a land
5 parcel originally designated for Mount Laurel pur-6 poses to be used without set-asides; and therefore,
7 a hearing had to be held on that issue. And what 8 appears to be, in this interpretation of the Court's 9 order, then occurred, as a I read it from the town-
10 ship, it appears as though the Court was bargaining 11 with the municipality.

12 The Court ordered that the town had two 13 options, that it could, if it wished to avoid non-14 compliance, reduce its fair share by the number of 15 units lost in the unlawful approval; or it could 16 reinstate that tract and vacate the approval.

17 Of course, if the town chose to reduce its 18 fair share, the Court expected voluntary compliance.

19 The township informed the Court in writing 20 that it would do neither, on August 2nd, 1985. And 21 in an order dated August 30th, 1985, the Court 22 confirmed what it had said at the hearing of 23 July 25th, that the compliance ordinance would 24 automatically become non-compliant, because by the 25 township -- its admission, one of the parcels

1 necessary to satisfy their fair share had been 2 utilized for other purposes.

3 The Court order directed that the Master
4 provide a compliance plan by October -- by October 7th.
5 It chose a rather short time frame because of the 6 fact that there was a plan in existence which the 7 Master had worked very closely with, and that it was 8 really only necessary for the Master to select 9 another parcel and clean up any other defects, if 10 any, in the ordinance.

11 What is left to be done in Monroe is for the 12 Master to file a report. And I might mention that 13 she, too, is withholding further action pending 14 today's motion and, therefore, that the report might 15 not be filed by next Monday.

16 The Court would have to hold a relatively 17 short compliance hearing thereafter, since the town 18 found at least one of the parcels compliant, and 19 the issues would be those raised by the plaintiffs 20 to the extent that they felt improperly omitted.

21 If necessary, any Court-ordered revisions
22 would follow, and I would anticipate that this 23 procedure could be accomplished in three to four 24 months.

25 Finally, the Piscataway timetable again

1 tracks the other three cases, except that at the 2 end of the eighteen-day trial, the Court did not 3 issue an opinion, because it felt that the 4 methodology did not adequately reflect the capacity
5 of Piscataway to absorb lower income housing.

6 And instead, the Court ordered the Master
7 to inventory the suitable land. That report took 8 a substantial period of time and was not received 9 until the fall, and the township contested the 10 report in November of 1984.

11 Restraints on approval of all sites found 12 suitable by the Court-appointed expert were 13 entered because of the limited amount of the land 14 available. A supplemental report was received by 15 the Court based upon additional issues raised by 16 the parties on January 18th, 1985.

17 An evidentiary hearing on suitability, a
18 site-by-site review, was held in February of '85, 19 and a very time-consuming one at that.

20 At the end of that hearing, the Court felt 21 that it would be appropriate and fair to the muni-22 cipality to permit a site inspection; and at the 23 same time, it took the opportunity to also inspect 24 the Cranbury issues, and both inspections were 25 summarized in a very brief transcription given to 1 counsel.

2           Thereafter, a letter opinion was sent forth, 3 and rezoning was ordered within ninety days of 4 July 23rd. The order incorporating that letter
5 was dated September 17th, 1985, and directed re-6 zoning by October 23rd, 1985.

7           What is left in Piscataway is somewhat more
8 substantial than the other municipalities. A com-
9 pliance hearing has to be held; and at that time,
10 the Court has indicated that it will allow Piscataway --
11 did I say Cranbury? -- Piscataway to introduce ad-
12 ditional evidence as to the unsuitability of parcels 13 which have been found least facially suitable, if I 14 can use that term. And that will consume some time.

15           Conversely, however, there are no substantial
16 objections indicated with respect to builder remedy
17 claims in Piscataway, so that there should not be 18 any substantial time on that issue. The possible 19 need for a Master revision, of course, exists at 20 the completion of the hearing. It would appear that 21 this procedure will take approximately five months, 22 perhaps less, and perhaps a month more.

23           Now finally -- and I am almost finished -- 24 with the overview of the statute's meaning, with a 25 detailed review of the procedures and time frames

1 under the Act, and an analysis as to the progress,
2 if I can use that term, and status of each case 3 before the Court, there remains only the issue of 4 whether the case should be transferred.

5 The parties have suggested a host of criteria 6 by which the application to transfer should be 7 judged. I believe it would be useful to list them, 8 not necessarily in order of preference, and clearly 9 with no intention to imply approval of each factor.

10 I list them to preserve them for considera-11 tion in future matters. Clearly in this -- in the 12 cases before the Court, certain factors predominate 13 and others have little relevance. Indeed, in some 14 cases, I am not sure that I share the fact that 15 they have any relevance, at least with respect to 16 these cases.

17 The factors suggested include the age of the 18 case; the complexity of the issue; the stage of the 19 litigation, that is, whether it's at discovery, pre-20 trial, trial, compliance; the number and nature of 21 previous determinations of substantive issues.

22 The relative degree of judicial and ad-
23 ministrative expertise on the issues involved; the 24 need for the development of an evidentiary record; 25 conduct of the parties; the likelihood that the

1 Council determinations would differ from the 2 Court's; the likelihood that the Council's determina-3 tions would have a basis in broader statewide policy.

4 Whether harm would be caused by a delay in 5 the transfer or, conversely, whether a delay -- whether 6 a denial of the transfer would cause a greater delay.

7 Whether the Council process, absent the 8 ability to impose restraint, would cause the ir-9 reparable loss of vacant developable land for 10 Mount Laurel construction.

11 Would the transfer tend to facilitate or 12 expedite the realistic opportunity for lower income
13 housing? The possibility of a change in the housing 14 market, which could occur if venue, that is, the 15 Council or the Court, causes a delay.

16 Now, I am sure there are other issues that 17 were mentioned. They may be encompassed or hidden 18 within what I have listed, but there are none that 19 I did not mention which are relevant to my decision.
20 As I noted, I see no need to dwell upon each of the 21 factors.

22 The case before the Court, or the cases 23 before the Court today, are at the one extreme of 24 the transfer spectrum. If manifest injustice is 25 to be found in any transfer motions before this

1 Court, it must include all five here today.

2 Again, without definition, you can tell mani-
3 fest injustice when you see it. The mere recitation
4 of the procedural history of these cases compels 5 that conclusion.

6 Without repeating the facts of each case,
7 all of them have certain things in common. They 8 have been in the system a long time, particularly, 9 of course, the four Urban League cases, which are 10 nearly teenagers. They have been arduous, they 11 have been complex, they have taxed the resources of 12 all of the parties involved.

13 To repeat even a portion of the process
14 before the Council seems unnecessarily burdensome 15 and unfair to all of the parties, even if the 16 municipalities are <sup>often</sup> rarely desirous of doing that.

17 In South Plainfield and in Piscataway there 18 are restraints pending which serve to preserve the 19 scarce available municipal land for lower income 20 housing. In my view, these restraints will be 21 <sup>lost</sup> the less by transfer; and in the interim period, 22 further development will occur. Whether they could 23 be reinstated is a very, very questionable issue
24 under the Act.

25 Most importantly, and indeed of predominant

1 importance in these cases, is the status of each 2 case -- and that's why I took the time I did to 3 review it -- and the inevitable delay which must 4 be caused by the transfer.

5 As the facts which I have recited show, each
6 of the cases before this Court are near completion.
7 The Court's best estimate is that they could be 8 done in anywhere from a month to six months. And 9 even if that estimate is overly-optimistic, the 10 time span is significantly shorter than the approxi-
11 mate nearly two-year process through the Council.

12 Delay equates to postponing the day that 13 the realistic opportunity is afforded and housing
14 is built. In each of these cases, we have builders
15 ready to proceed, just as builders have promptly
16 moved to get construction underway in other towns
17 where compliance has already occurred.

18 Now, avoidance of delay at all costs should 19 never be the goal. No one has demonstrated that 20 the Court does not have the expertise to handle 21 these matters and to meet the special issues in-22 volved.

23 It is not an issue of whether another body 24 has that expertise in this setting. There is, 25 rather, an issue of whether the Court lacks it. If

1 it did, that might override all of the other
2 considerations involved in this case. I don't 3 believe it does.

4 In Cranbury, the Court has and will make 5 every effort to evaluate Cranbury's claim of en-6 vironmental and agricultural preservation. The 7 site inspection was aimed at that goal in part, and 8 the Master's report was sensitive to it. And it is 9 simply incorrect to suggest that the Court cannot or 10 will not deal adequately with the issue.

11 I will state for the record clearly that I
12 was most impressed by the character of the community, 13 by its prevailing rural character, and that it is 14 incumbent upon this Court to take that into account 15 when it reaches that posture.

16 In Piscataway's case, the Court has gone
17 through a time-consuming and painstaking process, 18 through an individual site inventory, a personal 19 inspection, a prolonged case -- site-by-site 20 hearing, in order to ensure a fair treatment in the 21 town, and will extend that into the next compliance
22 hearing.

23 I can't guess how a housing council would 24 handle the Piscataway problem. I can only feel 25 relatively assured that it is going to be handled

1 fairly and sensitively before this Court.

2 Piscataway has the opportunity given to it expressly,
3 in the opinion of the Court, to refine its capacity
4 to handle its fair share.

5 It should be evident, finally, that all of 6 the municipalities who have been before this Court 7 have been evaluated on statewide criteria which have 8 been carefully developed and which have been 9 challenged and rechallenged and retested through 10 the adversary process of various cases.

11 The fact of the matter is that no one has 12 come forward with any comprehensive alternative
13 methodology. The methodology which is utilized 14 leaves room for adjustments based upon absence of 15 vacant land, environmental constraints, need for 16 the preservation of agriculture, historical preserva-
17 tion, recreational preservation, and other categories
18 of land uses, prior land use patterns, prior 19 efforts at providing a variety of housing, and 20 many other practical and equitable considerations 21 which would or could affect the fair share which 22 is produced by a literal application of the 23 methodology.

24 That flexibility has already resulted in a
25 reduction of the Plainfield and Piscataway fair

1 share by approximately fifty and forty percent
2 respectively, and in Monroe by a Court offer to 3 reduce the fair share based upon the special
4 equities involved there. It will soon be addressed
5 in both Cranbury and Warren.

6 Thus, I can comfortably conclude that in 7 these cases not only is it manifestly unjust to the 8 plaintiffs to transfer these cases, but it would not 9 be and will not be unjust to the municipalities to 10 retain them.

11 That, of course, is not the express test of 12 the statute. The statute talks in terms of mani-13 fest injustice to a party, not the absence of in-14 justice to another party.

15 But in reaching the conclusion, one must 16 go through a balancing process in any event, since 17 there may be some injustice in given cases to both 18 sides.

19 In this case, I don't find that. I see 20 only injustice to the plaintiffs. In this case, 21 the balance tips dramatically one-sidedly in favor 22 of a denial of motions to transfer.

23 The statutory test, as I said, is manifest 24 injustice to any party. The defendants have 25 proved -- have failed to prove the slightest

1 injustice to them, whereas the injustice to the 2 lower income households and the plaintiffs is 3 manifest.

4 Based upon those findings, I will accept 5 the order from Mr. Neisser as to the four Urban 6 League cases, from Mr. Murray as to the Warren
7 case; and I deny the applications for transfer.

8 Any other issues will not be addressed
9 today. If there is to be an application for a stay 10 of the Court's ruling for the purposes of appeal, 11 it is denied for the reasons expressed in this 12 opinion.

13 One at a time. Let's just . . . .

14 Mr. Coley.

15 MR. COLEY: What's -- I am not asking the 16 Court to give me a legal opinion on this, but do 17 you believe that this motion as it was made is 18 under the aspects of the Mount Laurel case where 19 there's no interim appeals made in a case?

20 THE COURT: I can't give you a legal opinion.
21 That's why I said if there's an application for a 22 stay, I wouldn't deal with it. And I assumed you
23 would first make that application. I think if there 24 is any stay, the Appellate Division should consider 25 it in light of the issue as to whether you have a

1 right to appeal in the first place and, secondly,
2 in light of the issue of whether a stay is ap-3 propriate, given the status of these cases as I have 4 set them forth.

5 Was there another defendant's counsel?

6 Mr. Paley?

7 MR. PALEY: Your Honor, I have another issue
8 that I'd like --

9 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Neisser.

10 MR. NEISSER: Yes. I would request the 11 lifting of the prior -- of the Court's prior stay
12 in its August 9th order as to South Plainfield, 13 which stayed the effectiveness of their ordinances,
14 zoning and affordable housing ordinances, pending
15 decision of the transfer motion.

16 Now that that's been decided, I would re-
17 quest that the stay be vacated.

18 THE COURT: I thought that was automatically
19 in the order. I thought it said it will remain 20 in effect until this -- until it is heard, stay 21 the vacated --

22 MR. NEISSER: I would request Your Honor
23 could set a date for hearing of the other motion
24 of Cranbury, which is the builder's remedy moratorium, 25 so that we can move forward towards compliance

1 hearing.

2 THE COURT: I will do my best. In all
3 candor, I'm swamped, and I do intend, as I have 4 indicated today, to set a date for the Cranbury
5 hearing. And that should be, and please get ready, 6 toward the end of October.

7 I intend to set a very short date for the 8 Plainfield hearing, South Plainfield hearing. And 9 I have another eight transfer motions which I have 10 to deal with, three more on Friday. So just be 11 patient with me. I'll do my best.

12 If I may say, off the record . . . .

13 (Whereupon a brief discussion was held off 14 the record.)

15 MR. SANTORO: Your Honor, when will Your 16 Honor decide the other issue of the restraints 17 that are currently on South Plainfield as far as 18 the non-Mount Laurel lands, so that when the phone 19 calls start coming in, I can advise them accordingly?
20 This is the borough property that's not in the 21 inventory, that's --

22 THE COURT: Do you have any objection to 23 that, Mr. Neisser, as to the sales by the borough?

24 MR. NEISSER: Oh, yes, I certainly do.

25 THE COURT: Not the sales.

1 MR. NEISSER: The stay.

2 THE COURT: Any non-municipal lands not 3 included in the compliance package can be removed 4 from the stay.

5 MR. NEISSER: I thought they -- that stay
6 was lifted by Your Honor on August 9th.

7 MR. SANTORO: Bidding permits were. We are 8 talking now about the completion of transactions
9 of land sales involving borough land that was not 10 included in the Mount Laurel inventory.

11 MR. PALEY: Your Honor, I had a motion which 12 was addressed to the blanket restraints on 13 Piscataway, which I understand Your Honor has not 14 decided and will reserve for another day.
15 Mr. Salsburg's partner was here earlier this 16 morning, and left when you indicated that you would 17 not address any other motions.

18 On his behalf, I would ask that at least 19 his application, which he by letter had renewed 20 for that particular parcel, be disposed of relatively 21 expeditiously.

22 THE COURT: Do my best, although I have a 23 tough time with removing any restraints in 24 Piscataway, but I will do my best. You can pass 25 that dicta on to him.

MR. PALEY: Thank you, Your Honor.

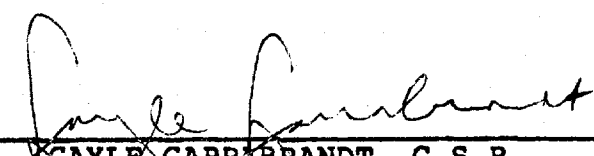

THE COURT: Okay. Anything further, gentlemen? Thank you for your patience and for your interesting arguments.

(End of proceedings.)
