JUDGE SERPENTELLI'S CHAMBERS

Reported by:
GLORIA MATHEY, C.S.R.

1 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be 2 seated.

3 All right. This is the return date of 4 three motions, only two on the calendar, I 5 believe. There's Timber Properties' motion to 6 intervene, the Dobbs' motion to intervene, and 7 also a notice of motion to dissolve the stay and 8 compel immediate public production of an option 9 agreement and to dismiss the complaint brought by 10 Bedminster against Dobbs.

11 Now, I have read all of the moving papers 12 and all of the responses thereto.

13 All right. Does it make any difference
14 who wants to talk first? Mr. Trombadore?

15 MR. FERGUSON: Your Honor, before we start, 16 have you heard from Mr. Hill as to whether he's 17 coming? We have not. I would have thought he 18 would have been --

19 THE COURT: I would think so. I thought we 20 had him. I'm sorry.

21 MR. TROMBADORE: I spoke to Mr. Hill
22 earlier this week. We talked briefly about this 23 motion and this hearing. The impression I had was 24 that he wasn't interested. He didn't indicate 25 that he would be here. When, in fact, when I

1 said, "I'll see you on Friday," he said, "Well, 2 I'm not sure that I'll be there.

3 THE COURT: Well, maybe we better just 4 check.

5 MR. FERGUSON: I spent all day with Mr.
6 Hill, your Honor, and --

7 THE COURT: Yes. I was going to ask you, 8 you were with him when?

9 MR. FERGUSON: Mr. O'Connell and I were 10 with him from eight-thirty in the morning until 11 about four, and --

12 THE COURT: I thought sure he'd be here to 13 collect his order today.

14 MR. MEISER: He was certainly aware that we 15 were going to discuss the order.

16 THE COURT: Yes. I'd like to go over it.

17 MR. FERGUSON: I ordinarily wouldn't be 18 solicitous of Mr. Hill's position or welfare, your 19 Honor, but I don't want to do it twice, this 20 motion.

21 (Off-record discussion.)

22 THE COURT: Let's start.

23 MR. TROMBADORE: Your Honor, Timber
24 Properties has moved to intervene in this matter,
25 and that motion is opposed by Bedminster Township

1 and it is opposed by the Public Advocate. The 2 position taken by the Public Advocate, however, is 3 different than that taken by the Township. The 4 Township argues that the motion is defective, it
5 is untimely, and that it is contrary to public
6 policy. There's also some collateral argument
7 raised as to whether Timber has standing.

8 The Public Advocate, on the other hand, 9 takes the position that the motion should be 10 denied without prejudice, and that Timber should 11 be afforded an opportunity to separate stages of 12 these proceedings to present its position, first 13 at a hearing, to approve any settlement that 14 evolves from the proceedings, and secondly, if 15 indeed there is a motion, for repose brought by 16 the Township at the hearing on that motion.

17 In 1981, the lands on which Timber proposes 18 to construct low and moderate income housing, were 19 rezoned by virtue of recommendations which were 20 taken to Judge Leahy in the suit then pending, and 21 that rezoning placed these lands of Timber
22 Properties, consisting of land of Rodenbach, 23 people named Weiss and people named Amato, about 24 seventy-five acres of land in the center of 25 Bedminster, the intersection of Highway 202, and

1 Flemington Road, into a multi-family zone.

2 That ordinance required that twenty percent
3 of any houses or units constructed on the property
4 be affordable housing. All of this was designed 5 to meet the standards which had been enunciated by 6 the Supreme Court in Mount Laurel I.

7 The Public Advocate was not satisfied with 8 the judgment entered by Judge Leahy based on those 9 recommendations, and appealed from that judgment
10 based on two grounds: Namely, that the remedy 11 given to Allan Deane, now Hills, did not insure 12 that that company would construct affordable 13 housing; and, secondly, that there was no adequate 14 definition of Bedminster's fair share of such 15 housing.

16 That appeal was stayed pending the decision
17 of the Court in Mount Laurel II. When Mount 18 Laurel II was decided, the Appellate Division
19 remanded the Public Advocate's appeal to this 20 Court, and at that point in time, in August of 21 1983, Timber had already proceeded, having 22 contracted to purchase this land following the 23 judgment, following the rezoning, and proceeded 24 also to seek planning board approvals, subdivision 25 and site plan approvals, for the construction of 1 four hundred and four multi-housing units, eighty 2 of which were set aside in accordance with the 3 ordinance as low and moderate income units. I 4 think all of this is recited in the various 5 briefs; however, it needs to be put in context.

6 Timer proceeded through the period of time
7 when the matter was still before the Appellate 8 Division. While Timer was before the planning 9 board receiving recommendations from a 10 subcommittee of that board concerning its design, 11 the Appellate Division was remanding this matter
12 to this Court.

13 Now, Timber was aware of that litigation.
14 In fact, anyone in Bedminster dealing with 15 property was aware of that litigation, because it 16 had been pending, as all of the papers point out 17 in great detail, for some twelve years at that 18 point in time.

19 Timber was satisfied that the litigation 20 would indeed further its purposes in seeking to 21 develop this property, because its purposes were 22 consistent with the judgment which was entered.
23 Timber at that time did not seek to attack the 24 ordinance, and contrary to what is recited in the 25 Public Advocate's brief, does not seek to attack

1 the ordinance at this time, in that we await the 2 decision of this Court in defining fair share and 3 in defining the standards for low and moderate 4 income housing as those standards apply to 5 Bedminster Township.

6 So we are, in effect, in accord with the 7 position of the Public Advocate in asking this 8 Court, and have been, in fact, waiting for this 9 Court to give that definition. We had no reason 10 to intervene in this matter or to oppose the 11 proceedings which were taking place in this matter 12 until we learned in February of this year, after 13 having been told, indeed, by this Court in 14 conferences related to other matters, that efforts 15 in the Bedminster case were proceeding at pace and 16 that there were prospects for settlement based on 17 recommendations which were coming from the 18 standing master.

19 Now, that information came to Timber 20 through me in a fortuitous way. I learned, simply 21 by hearing it discussed here in those conferences, 22 that one of the proposals which was then being 23 considered was the determination of a number, 24 phasing of that number, and the proposal to 25 down-zone other land which had been placed in

1 multi-family zoning in order to insure -- this is 2 my understanding. This is not language I'm 3 quoting. This is the impression I got -- in order
4 to insure that Bedminster would not then be 5 providing through its zoning ordinance more than 6 its fair share or more than what was ultimately 7 agreed upon by virtue of a settlement to be its 8 fair share; namely, that Bedminster, riding with 9 Timber's project of four hundred and four units, 10 would be down-zoned, and, in fact, would be 11 rezoned as part of that overall proposal being 12 considered by the master and by the parties to an 13 office zone..

14 Now, it hasn't happened and I agree and 15 admit, as indicated by Mr. Meiser in his brief, 16 that we may be making certain assumptions with 17 respect to what is going to happen. I don't know 18 how we can proceed without making certain 19 assumptions. We have to act only on the 20 information that we have, which, I will be the 21 first to say, is not complete information. I have 22 not, for instance, seen the reports submitted by 23 Mr. Raymond, the most recent report. I've not 24 been privy to the discussions which have taken 25 place among the parties and with this Court, and I

1 know from, again, listening to what has been said,
2 that those discussions have been extensive.

3 Our purpose in seeking to intervene is not 4 to reopen all of those discussions or to interfere 5 with a settlement, but simply to make it known to 6 this Court that there is a property owner in 7 Bedminster who has applied, who is prepared to 8 proceed, and who has been before Bedminster since 9 1981, in December of 1981, with a proposal which, 10 in fact, would produce low and moderate income 11 housing. Admittedly, when that application was 12 filed, the eighty units which were defined in the 13 application were defined as affordable housing.
14 But that was prior to the decision of the Supreme 15 Court. There is no question that Timber has 16 represented and has been prepared to build those 17 units as low and moderate units in accordance with 18 the definition of that term under Mount Laurel II.

19 In addition, in its submission to the 20 Township, Timber proposed an expansion of the 21 sewer plant, and that is significant, because it 22 is understood that one of the considerations in 23 the settlement discussions in this case is the 24 ability of Bedminster to absorb units in 25 particular areas because of the existence or

1 nonexistence of certain infrastructure. I'm given 2 to understand that one of the significant facts is 3 whether the Bedminster sewer plant can or cannot 4 be expanded to provide facilities to certain 5 developers.

6 There's also discussion, as I understand
7 it, as to whether Environmental Disposal 8 Corporation must or must not allocate certain of 9 its gallonage to purposes other than reserve to 10 itself for Hill's development. Timber, I think, 11 made it very plain in the terms submitted to the 12 Township that, not only was it prepared to provide 13 those facilities, but that it was entirely 14 feasible from an engineering point of view to do
15 so. There were detailed studies and plans
16 submitted by Mr. Jeskef, Jeskef-Kellam Associates, 17 indicating that that could clearly be done.

18 I find it difficult to understand the 19 position taken by the Public Advocate in this 20 matter. I appreciate the suggestion that the more 21 orderly way in which the purposes of Timber can be 22 served is to wait until a settlement has been 23 proposed to this Court, and then on notice to the 24 parties and to those interested, such as Timber 25 and Dobbs, permit them to come in to present their

1 views with respect to the settlement and whether 2 it is within a range of reasonableness.

3 Indeed, Mr. Meiser asked me this morning, 4 "Why do you have a problem with that? Isn't that 5 going to satisfy what you want? What is your 6 objection to it?" My objection is that, I'm sort 7 of like the fellow who's been told to chase the 8 horse after the barn door's been opened. That's 9 turning that around a little bit, but I would be 10 somewhat in that position, because this is not the 11 typical case in which the Court has the benefit of 12 litigation. This isn't even a case in which the 13 ordinance itself is being attacked. This case is 14 before the Court through a rather unique 15 procedural history, and that is, it is here on a 16 remand for a limited purpose and that purpose is 17 to determine how that ordinance must be revised to 18 comply with Mount Laurel II, having been drafted
19 and ordered by a judgment which determined that it 20 complied with Mount Laurel I.

21 So the purpose for which it is here is 22 limited in that respect, and I would --

23 THE COURT: I don't think I quite 24 understand that, Mr. Trombadore. Assuming that 25 there was no settlement in this case, are you

1 suggesting there's not going to be a fair-share 2 determination?

3 MR. TROMBADORE: Not at all.

4 THE COURT: And a determination of region?

5 MR. TROMBADORE: Not at all.

6 THE COURT: So why wouldn't there be a full 7 trial on the merits with respect to, let's say, 8 Allan Deane?

9 MR. TROMBADORE: Your Honor, the question
10 would not be whether the ordinance is 11 exclusionary. The question would be whether the 12 definition of fair share and whether the 13 definition of low and moderate is appropriate in 14 that ordinance. This is not a case in which the 15 ordinance does not have a basis predicated on 16 earlier litigation. That's what makes this case
17 different. And I think the issue is far more 18 limited. The ultimate question of fair share 19 number is the same, and I would agree that your 20 Honor would hear testimony with regard to that.

21 THE COURT: How about the ordinance? No 22 one has found that the present ordinance is 23 compliant.

24 MR. TROMBADORE: Except the trial Court,
25 not with Mount Laurel II, that's correct.

1 THE COURT: Yes.

2 MR. TROMBADORE: Now, your Honor, I would 3 submit that Timber should be permitted to 4 intervene with respect to those issues, at least 5 to the extent that we are informed, and express to 6 the Court the views of our witnesses with respect 7 to those issues. We feel that that is in the 8 interest of the public and in the interest of the 9 Court.

10 I would submit that from any number of 11 points of view, those interests are not adequately 12 served by the parties in this litigation if, 13 indeed, the Public Advocate continues to take the 14 position that Timber should not be heard at this 15 point in the litigation.

16 It would seem to me that the proposal is 17 one which, in effect, would create the 18 opportunities for low and moderate income housing 19 in one package, or essentially one package, and 20 that that in itself is not in the interest of the 21 public, and that it would, in fact, reject out of 22 hand an opportunity which is a real opportunity to 23 bring such housing into existence.

24 THE COURT: I have two questions. The 25 first one is: Why didn't Timber, a year ago, get

1 into this law suit? I know you've indicated that 2 you thought that things were going to work out all 3 right. But given the remand to this Court and 4 given the language in Mount Laurel, that a town
5 was free to continue within reason five-acre
6 zoning, if it meant -- if it met it's Mount Laurel 7 obligation, there was, was there not, the 8 potential in this case for a rezoning of 9 Bedminster generally to satisfy their Mount Laurel 10 obligation and shift the larger lot zoning
11 elsewhere? So that there was always the potential 12 from the time that the case was remanded that you 13 could be adversely impacted by down-zoning, if I 14 could call it that, or down-zoning density on your 15 parcel.

16 MR. TROMBADORE: Let me give you a very 17 specific answer to that. First of all, the growth
18 area in Bedminster under the State Development
19 Guide Plan is the 202, 206 corridor. Any thought 20 that this land would be down-zoned into a large 21 lot area was out of the question. The entire 22 basis of Judge Leahy's opinion was that, because 23 that corridor was then considered to be a 24 developing area, that it had to be rezoned. Mr.
25 Raymond, who was the master in these proceedings,

1 and we knew that he was involved in these 2 proceedings, was the very person who had 3 recommended the multi-family zoning on this 4 property. The application on this property was 5 pending before the local board.

6 The simple answer is that, knowing the 7 history of the matter, it was never even 8 considered that Bedminster would look to rezone 9 this property, since this property would furnish 10 the basis for its fair share, at least in part 11 would furnish the basis for its fair-share.
12 Bedminster had just come through some ten or 13 twelve years of litigation, resulting in this 14 rezoning. To our knowledge, the only issue that 15 was then before the Court, and that would be 16 resolved by the Court, was how many, and do you 17 have enough with what you've got, and what -- how 18 will you define in your ordinance the language 19 which insures low and moderate as opposed to 20 affordable? Those were, at least as far as we 21 understood, the issues that were to be resolved 22 here, and that was consistent with the purpose for 23 the appeal brought by the Public Advocate.

24 THE COURT: But a municipality is always 25 free to change its mind in a non-Mount Laurel

1 setting, and you were in a non-Mount Laurel 2 setting and continue to be up to today, and,
3 therefore, theoretically at least, your property
4 could have been rezoned while you were on appeal
5 in Superior Court, could have been zoned 6 downwards, whether Mount Laurel was here or not.

7 MR. TROMBADORE: Your Honor, I concede
8 that's correct and the only answer that I can give 9 is the one that I have given - that we did not 10 consider that a practical prospect or one that was 11 likely to occur. The evolution of that 12 possibility through the course of the discussions 13 in the settlement procedures in this case is what 14 brings us here this morning.

15 THE COURT: The other question I have is,
16 with regard to the general issue that Mr. Meiser 17 raises as it relates to your request to intervene, 18 and that is the question of whether there
19 shouldn't come a time in Mount Laurel litigation 20 where a municipality wants to make its peace, that 21 it should have the right to do so free of 22 continuing lawsuits which interrupt its rezoning
23 process. And by that I mean, should there come a 24 time when a municipality has been sued by one 25 building, for example, and it says, "All right.

1 We realize we've be exclusionary and we realize we 2 have to revise our ordinance, and we'll do so," 3 and they start to do that and they select the 4 parcels in town, including that builder's parcel,
5 to meet their compliance, and then another builder 6 sues them and, so, they have to rethink again to 7 accommodate that builder, and they're just about 8 ready to come in with a compliant ordinance and a 9 third builder shows up. Mr. Meiser is suggesting 10 that public policy would be promoting, by 11 including those builders who have been called 12 tag-along plaintiffs by those who wish to 13 duplicate their position and letting them 14 participate fully in the revision process to 15 demonstrate that the Township has been arbitrary 16 and capricious in not including their parcels, to 17 show, for example, that the Township has selected 18 sites which will not reasonably produce Mount 19 Laurel zoning, and that the builder is ready to 20 produce it immediately, and all those kinds of 21 arguments that could be made - doesn't that make a 22 lot of sense from the standpoint of the policy 23 provided by Mount Laurel?

24 MR. TROMBADORE: It does. And I have no
25 argument with it. Indeed, I share that, because

1 I, as your Honor knows, I have litigated the case
2 where we are now faced with motions to intervene, 3 even after the termination of the litigation, and 4 at a point in time when we are awaiting your 5 Honor's decision. I share that and I have no 6 problem with that.

7 The difference, I think, in the motion
8 brought by Timber is simply this: We do not come 9 to the Court intervening to seek to attack the 10 zoning that is upon the land. We have rested with 11 that zoning, because we have seen it as consistent 12 with what is called for by the opinion, consistent 13 to the point that it lacks the determinations that 14 must be made here with respect to the ultimate 15 number, and that doesn't affect the zoning on this 16 property, and the definition of what is low and 17 moderate, which we are prepared to accept.

18 And with that limited purpose, what we seek 19 to achieve is the avoidance of a situation where 20 an existing Mount Laurel II remedy is rejected by 21 virtue of a settlement amongst parties seeking to 22 place that remedy in a different context and 23 perhaps in a way that does not fully satisfy the 24 requirements of the Court.

25 There is some suggestion of compromising

1 this settlement, and, again, I cannot speak with 2 any definite information because we don't have 3 that definite information --

4 THE COURT: By that you mean, compromise of 5 the public interest?

6 MR. TROMBADORE: Of the public interest in 7 terms of the number and how the phasing of those 8 units is to be accomplished.

9 THE COURT: Fine. Good. All right.

10 Mr. Basralian, as to your motion to 11 intervene, and then we'll give you an opportunity 12 to be heard on Mr. Ferguson's motion to dissolve 13 the stay.

14 MR. BASRALIAN: Well, as previously stated, 15 this is our return date of our motion to 16 intervene, which is opposed by Bedminster and 17 somewhat conditionally opposed by the Public 18 Advocate.

19 Although the complaint that we have filed
20 in connection with our motion addresses both Mount 21 Laurel II issues, count one through three, and 22 non-Mount Laurel II issues, count four and five, 23 this is because the entire controversy doctrine - 24 and we would only expect the Court, really, to 25 consider the Mount Laurel II issues in connection

1 with the compliance hearing - the concerns
2 expressed by the parties that protracted 3 litigation would result from intervening, I think,
4 could be adequately addressed by the Court through 5 appropriate orders limiting discovery and defining 6 the role to be played by the various parties in 7 the compliance hearing.

8 What we are seeking on behalf of Dobbs is 9 the ability to cross-examine, the ability to 10 present testimony and documents, and the ability 11 to take limited discovery relevant to the issues
12 to be decided in the compliance hearing, fair 13 share, realistic opportunities in a builders 14 remedy.

15 Mount Laurel II contemplates such a 16 compliance hearing, and not simply the filing of 17 objections. The latter would be inadequate to 18 protect our clients' interests and would be 19 inadequate to assist the Court in making a 20 determination, or, the determination which the 21 Court must make.

22 THE COURT: Excuse me. May I interrupt 23 you?

24 Do I understand you that you're not looking 25 for a full hearing, but a hearing on the review of

1 the package, including the fair share; is that 2 what you're saying?

3 MR. BASRALIAN: Well, we're looking for our 4 participation in the compliance. With respect to 5 a full hearing on our other issues, I think that 6 they are not necessarily relevant to the issue of 7 the builders remedy and the Mount Laurel II 8 compliance.

9 THE COURT: I'm not sure I understand that.
10 Are you looking to attack the fair share number 11 that has been suggested in the settlement posture?

12 MR. BASRALIAN: Well, I think that there 13 can't be a settlement without a compliance 14 hearing, and rather than our being limited to the 15 filing of objections, we should have the right to 16 the participation so that the Court, which is the 17 ultimate finder of fact with respect to 18 compliance, can have the input that we have 19 suggested in the past and which we have been a 20 party to. I think intervention is only way that 21 that can be accomplished.

22 THE COURT: Well, I just want to understand 23 your position. I'm not suggesting that it's not 24 correct. I'm just trying to clarify it.

25 Are you attempting to be heard on the

1 number? Do you want to demonstrate that 2 Bedminster's number is higher than that suggested 3 in the settlement?

4 MR. BASRALIAN: We want to be heard on the 5 number, since there isn't a number that has yet 6 been other than suggested, the number that has 7 been established that has -- seems to have one 8 universal approval by the Court and the parties as 9 to the number affecting Bedminster Township.

10 THE COURT: You want a hearing on fair 11 share? I still haven't gotten an answer to my 12 question.

13 MR. BASRALIAN: Yes.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Now, you want a hearing 15 on the compliance, obviously. You wish to 16 demonstrate that that, when you talk about 17 compliance, you wish to demonstrate that the 18 ordinance as presently drafted does not comply 19 with Mount Laurel, or do you wish to demonstrate 20 that the site selection does not comply?

21 MR. BASRALIAN: Both, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. So you want a full 23 hearing.

24 MR. BASRALIAN: That's why --

25 THE COURT: You want a full trial, not in

1 the compliance mode -- you see, what I call 2 compliance, in its secondary stage, is the 3 revision of the ordinance and the provision of 4 sites to provide for the fair share as previously 5 determined. The first compliance question is 6 whether the ordinance as presented to the Court at 7 the time of the hearing meets Mount Laurel. We're 8 passed that to the extent that Bedminster has 9 recognized through its previous litigation that it
10 had to revise its ordinance; it has, and it now 11 takes the position that its ordinance complies.
12 You want to take the position it doesn't and you 13 want to show that its fair share also is greater 14 than that which has been discussed in the 15 settlement posture and not unanimously approved by 16 anyone yet. And, therefore, you want to have a 17 full hearing.

18 MR. BASRALIAN: With respect to those 19 issues, your Honor.

20 THE COURT: What issues don't you want to 21 be heard?

22 MR. BASRALIAN: I don't have to be heard on 23 my alternative count, your Honor. What I'm saying 24 is that, basically, I don't know what the number 25 is, and we don't know what the number is. There

1 have been numbers anywhere from four hundred to 2 eight hundred and eighty, and sometimes higher, as 3 Bedminster's fair share, and that number has yet
4 to be established. Our input into that number may 5 well make a difference when a number is finally 6 arrived at. Perhaps we don't have disagreement 7 with the number, but certainly we have input and,
8 I think, valid input with respect to the site 9 selection and the overall compliance and the 10 realistic opportunity for the development.

11 It is our belief that without that hearing 12 and without the intervention of Dobbs on those 13 issues, I think there could be a result which is, 14 in fact, only paper compliance with the Township.
15 I think Dobbs -- Dobbs already -- its input since 16 last September, I think, has been helpful to the 17 Court. We've raised issues which are relevant and 18 which the town has now been forced to address.
19 Those issues would otherwise have been absent.

20 THE COURT: You're not satisfied with the 21 suggestion Mr. Meiser makes, to permit Bedminster 22 to present its proposal for compliance and to 23 permit you to be heard as to why your site should 24 be included?

25 MR. BASRALIAN: Mr. Meiser limits us to,

1 really, a forum of report without the ability for 2 the limited forum of discovery and cross
3 examination and presentation of our own experts.
4 He's saying, go ahead and give the town an 5 opportunity to settlement -- to settle. To date, 6 I'm not aware that any settlement has come forth,
7 and I don't know what the status of that is. I 8 know there were meetings, but we did not 9 participate.

10 THE COURT: Let me make it clear. I'm not 11 aware that there's any settlement either, except 12 for the two hundred and sixty units of Hill's 13 Development, which, I understand, has been 14 resolved and there's an order which was delivered 15 to me yesterday. But for that, there's been 16 certainly no approval by the Court of any overall 17 compliance package. And, indeed, the order which 18 I've looked at briefly indicates that the town is 19 not ready to rezone other parcels until the Dobbs 20 litigation, and perhaps Timber's, is resolved. So 21 there's no settlement at this particular posture.

22 MR. BASRALIAN: Well, it seems to me there 23 can't be compliance unless it is tested in the 24 court with the ability for cross examination and 25 with the ability for the input from Dobbs, which 1 is the reason why intervention is appropriate.

2 THE COURT: Suppose you were given a full 3 hearing on the compliance package that is present, 4 the town says, "Well, present a package", which 5 presumably is not going to include Dobbs - given 6 the town's prior position and given their 7 intention to condemn, at least their expressed 8 intention, suppose you were given a full hearing 9 on the reasonableness of your exclusion from their 10 compliance package, and by that I mean the 11 opportunity to present expert testimony as to why 12 their compliance package is inappropriate, and 13 even to have limited discovery, and I mean limited 14 in time as opposed to scope - would that satisfy 15 your purpose?

16 MR. BASRALIAN: It seems on first blush, 17 your Honor, that that parallels with what we have 18 asked for.

19 Let me perhaps query where we stand with 20 the issue of our builders remedy as part of that 21 compliance package, because that's an important 22 ingredient, otherwise we would be attacking one 23 end of it, and perhaps successfully, without 24 having reached the ultimate goal.

25 The genesis of this matter is that we have

1 come full circle from what we originally proposed 2 in our litigation to a builders remedy, because it 3 evolved out of the case management conferences we 4 had where the suggestion was even made by the 5 town's representative and by the standing master
6 that perhaps this was -- Dobbs' was an appropriate 7 site, and we submitted those proposals and I think 8 those two have to go together.

9 THE COURT: The hearing would have to 10 include either a legal determination as to your 11 right to a builders remedy or a hearing on the 12 facts as to whether a builders remedy should be 13 granted. I mean, there may be some factual issues 14 which lead to that, and if not, certainly a 15 determination would have to be made as to your 16 right to builders remedy. Yes, you would be heard 17 on that issue, certainly, whether it be in terms 18 of a legal issue or factual issue.

19 MR. BASRALIAN: Yes. I think what you have 20 stated and what we have asked for, appear to be 21 the same thing. But I don't think it can wait 22 until such time as Mr. Meiser has suggested, off 23 some time in the future, and should come now.

24 THE COURT: Such a hearing would not 25 include, as I see it, as I see Mr. Meiser's

1 suggestion, would not include a re-litigation of 2 the fair share. And I take it that you would have 3 to condition your acceptance of that procedure on 4 some general knowledge of the fair share number 5 arrived at. I mean, you're not going to agree to 6 that procedure if you're told today that the fair 7 share is four hundred, knowing that that could be 8 satisfied through the Hill's Development.

9 MR. BASRALIAN: Absolutely. I think we've 10 stated that in the past.

11 THE COURT: That's not to suggest that 12 that's the number. It is not.

13 MR. BASRALIAN: No. I certainly didn't 14 hope that was the suggestion:

15 THE COURT: All right. Unless you have 16 anything else, I have nothing else.

17 MR. BASRALIAN: Well, I have a lot more, 18 but I'll wait a response, if you will, until I've 19 heard what others have said on the issue.

20 THE COURT: All right. Let's just hear Mr.
 21 Ferguson with respect to the motion to dissolve 22 the stay with respect to the production of the 23 Dobbs documents, and that I have concluded from my 24 own independent review of them, that Dobbs is in 25 possession of a viable option continuing, in

1 effect, since 1979.

2 MR. FERGUSON: We are, of course,
3 suspicious in the extreme of a refusal to give us 4 those documents since 1979. I don't think there's 5 any legitimate reason for confidentiality. The 6 only thing in the record is a statement that Mr.
7 Dobbs would prefer to treat them as confidential.

8 THE COURT: What's wrong with that?

9 MR. FERGUSON: There's nothing wrong with 10 him making the statement.

11 THE COURT: No. I mean, what's wrong with 12 them being confidential?

13 MR. FERGUSON: Well, he's in court, your 14 Honor, and it's a fact relevant to the litigation.
15 I note that the particular Burke document is a 16 publicly recorded document. It seems to me, 17 judging from that, there's nothing to be lost by 18 making it public. If he wants a protective order 19 that it shall not go beyond this litigation, I 20 certainly have no objection to that. We deal with 21 such protective orders in trade-secret litigation 22 all the time.

23 THE COURT: Well, I'm not suggesting that 24 Bedminster would have any ill motive. But 25 wouldn't you see the likelihood in Mount Laurel

1 litigation, giving the recognized prior 2 unwillingness of many municipalities to meet their 3 Mount Laurel obligation, of utilizing information 4 that's contained in those options as a way of 5 frustrating a builder?

6 For example, let's hypothecate a builder
7 whose option was going to expire within a 8 six-month period - wouldn't a town be well-advised 9 under those circumstances to stall so that the 10 option expire?

11 MR. FERGUSON: I don't think so, your 12 Honor. I think the town would be apt to stall on 13 the hope that maybe the option may expire in six 14 months.

15 THE COURT: That's what I said.

16 MR. FERGUSON: No, no. But if they don't 17 know that it will expire, they will hope that it 18 will expire soon, and therefore they'll just keep 19 stalling. Oh, absolutely, absolutely.

20 THE COURT: Well, then, that confirms my 21 fear.

22 MR. FERGUSON: I mean, it's better to have 23 certain knowledge so you know what you're dealing 24 with. And aside from that, any option agreement 25 that doesn't provide for extensions in the event

1 of litigation, as I take it Mr. Dobbs' option does
2 because I've been told that, and the Timber's 3 option does, is totally improperly drafted.

4 THE COURT: Your only interest in knowing
5 what's in Mr. Dobbs' option agreement as it
6 relates to the Mount Laurel litigation is to know 7 whether they have -- or, that he has a property 8 interest sufficient to give him standing with 9 Mount Laurel obligation.

10 MR. FERGUSON: That's all we have a right
11 to know, your Honor. But should we become further 12 involved with Mr. Dobbs, we may get into the whole 13 problem of what is the fair return to the 14 developer and what is the extent of Mount Laurel 15 obligation. That may be the next step, but I hope 16 we never get there, since I hope the Court would 17 not allow intervention.

18 THE COURT: That's possible. But your only 19 interest is as I've stated it, and I have reviewed 20 the documents in camera and tell you that, in 21 fact, he does have such a standing.

22 Now, I don't want to put myself in a 23 position of saying trust me, but on the other 24 hand, I think that you've got to deal with the 25 intrusiveness to his contractual dealings, number

1 one. I don't know why the consideration for his 2 option has to be a matter of public knowledge or 3 even semi-public knowledge, whatever protective 4 order I might put on it. And, number two, I don't 5 have the slightest doubt that an ill-moded town 6 could abuse its knowledge it contains from an 7 option agreement, and if it's discoverable in this 8 case, I assume it's discoverable in any case, in 9 any Mount Laurel case, and I see that as being a 10 device to possibly frustrate builders in some 11 settings.

12 What would you think of the notion - if 13 you're not willing to trust the Court, and I don't 14 mean to put it in that posture, but because it 15 recognizes, notwithstanding the fact that one of 16 the principal areas in my practice was real 17 estate, that perhaps it could be argued that I 18 misread the documents - but what would you think 19 of the notion, the Court appointing an independent 20 expert to review the documents, the independent 21 expert being a skilled real estate attorney, and 22 to acknowledge their viability as binding
23 documents? I must say that, I have to put one 24 caveat on the finding I made with respect to 25 binding, and that is, I have been provided with

1 documents that were signed in counterpart and I do 2 not have fully-executed documents. They're 3 executed -- different documents are executed by 4 different persons, and before I could make the 5 finding that I made, I would have to receive them
6 as fully executed. I have no reason to believe 7 they're not, but that would be a condition of any 8 finding on my part.

9 I refer you, for example, to what the Court
10 did in Martin versus Educational Testing Service, 11 which is in 179 New Jersey Super, commencing at 12 page 317, and in that case, you might recall there 13 was a young fellow who flunked a test and he felt 14 the test was improperly graded and sought to get 15 the exam, and there was a defense raised of 16 constitutionality -- I'm sorry -- of 17 confidentiality, trade secrets and so forth, and 18 Judge Dreier acknowledged in part the necessity, 19 indeed the right, to know why the exam -- or, 20 whether the exam was accurately graded, but he 21 also acknowledged the ill effects of any 22 dissemination of a standardized exam and,
23 therefore, saw the appropriate necessity of having 24 an independent expert check the accuracy of the 25 grading. And I think it's an appropriate

1 compromise.

2 There is, of course, expressed authority in 3 Mount Laurel to make such an appointment, both 4 Mount Laurel I and II, and also in Service Liquor
5 Distributors versus Calvert Distillers, 16 Fed., 6 513.

7 Why wouldn't that satisfy your needs?

8 MR. FERGUSON: The ETS case, your Honor, 9 recognized a legitimate public interest in the 10 confidentiality of nation-wide tests, distributed 11 and trade secrets, plus also a right of privacy of 12 the parties. There is absolutely no counter -- no 13 analogous or similar public interest here.
14 Indeed, the only interest that is sought to be 15 protected is the, I take it, the option price and 16 what the developer will receive.

17 Now, the option --

18 THE COURT: And the date of its expiration.

19 MR. FERGUSON: And the date -- your Honor, 20 there's never been any question about stalling for 21 the date of an expiration. I think it is highly 22 relevant in this case, what the option price is, 23 what the developer who optioned a land for a 24 regional shopping mall and that is trying to get a 25 number of Mount Laurel units plus market units,

1 which would bring him a similar rate of return, 2 which would inure to give him the same option on 3 the market price --

4 THE COURT: How that is --

5 MR. TROMBADORE: Also, it's triggered to 6 different prices for different purposes.

7 THE COURT: How is that relevant?

8 MR. FERGUSON: It's not relevant right now, 9 but it will be.

10 THE COURT: It isn't relevant to standing.

11 MR. FERGUSON: Not to standing. Right now
12 the only question before the Court is standing. I 13 just don't see the public interest sought to be 14 protected. I have yet to hear any detriment to 15 the plaintiff from the disclosure of the option 16 documents.

17 THE COURT: I thought I gave you one.

18 MR. FERGUSON: That we would delay until it 19 expired some?

20 THE COURT: Yes.

21 MR. FERGUSON: Well, I think that we're in 22 court and the Court is well aware of that 23 possibility, and I think adequate provision can be 24 made in the courtroom to prevent it - if that 25 possibility exists, is my point. We might -- if

1 we wanted to delay and use delay to frustrate, 2 we'll use delay to frustrate in the hope that 3 somehow we will have caught the option expiration.
4 I mean, I think you're giving us incentive to 5 delay indefinitely and forever by this kind of 6 ruling.

7 THE COURT: Well, on that theory, you 8 should delay indefinitely, forever, for any 9 plaintiff on the thought that they may not own 10 property --

11 MR. FERGUSON: I don't think the incentive
12 to delay forever is there. I think the delay
13 incentive has been killed by Mount Laurel II. I 14 think that's one of the things the Court wanted to 15 deal with.

16 THE COURT: Absolutely, no question about
17 it.

18 MR. FERGUSON: I don't think that's a real 19 threat that the Court has to worry about.

20 THE COURT: It might influence whether you 21 take an appeal or not.

22 MR. FERGUSON: Oh, I don't think so. I
23 think you could make a ruling. For instance, the 24 Court can probably make a ruling that the option 25 shall be extended.

1 THE COURT: Oh, I can't -- how can I do
2 that with respect to an independent third-party?

3 Okay. I'm going to dispose of this motion.
4 I don't have to hear argument on it.

5 I will deny the motion for a disclosure of 6 the documents, having said what I have said, on 7 the condition that I be provided with proof of its 8 full execution. However, I will give to 9 Bedminster the right to have an independent 10 third-party appointed by the Court, at 11 Bedminster's expense, to review the documents and 12 confirm their viability, that is, to confirm the 13 fact that a prepared binding option agreement 14 exists by which Mr. Dobbs could acquire this 15 property at this time.

16 MR. FERGUSON: I would request a
17 certification go along with it, that all option 18 documents to date are provided.

19 THE COURT: All option documents have been 20 provided to me, to the best of my knowledge, from 21 1979 to presently. And I would, of course,
22 provide those to the expert. The expert will not 23 be appointed unless Bedminster requests its 24 appointment.

25 MR. FERGUSON: I missed what you said about

1 the cost, your Honor.

2 THE COURT: It's going to be at the cost --
3 at the expense of Bedminster.

4 MR. FERGUSON: Your Honor, I think if the 5 person who invokes the need for the privilege 6 ought to be saddled with the cost of the --

7 THE COURT: Judge Dreier didn't think so.
8 I thought his opinion was pretty sound.

9 MR. FERGUSON: With all due respect, your 10 Honor, the public interest is entirely different.

11 THE COURT: All right. That will be the 12 order on that motion.

13 All right. Now, Mr. Meiser, you've been 14 sitting patiently. I'll hear you with respect to 15 the two intervention motions.

16 MR. MEISER: Your Honor, we have basically 17 two positions, one, in a short term, for sixty 18 days we feel that there should not be any 19 permitted intervention. Ultimately, we feel that 20 they do, both of them, have a right to be heard.
21 And I should distinguish between the two 22 arguments.

23 Our reasons for suggesting a denial now 24 primarily go to the history of what's happened in 25 this case since October.

1 We reached an agreement in a case
2 management hearing to try to settle this case, all 3 of the case, to get the master involved.
4 Depending on what the Court does on the next 5 matter this afternoon -- this morning, we'll see 6 if the Allan Deane matter has been solved. We 7 think we may be moving towards a presentation to 8 the Court of either a rezoning by the Township or 9 a settlement signed by all the parties, which the 10 Court can consider.

11 I would suggest that, given how much of a 12 commitment has been made to trying to reach a 13 settlement, that nothing in this intervention be 14 done for sixty days.

15 THE COURT: Why would we need sixty days, 16 given the extensive discussion that's gone
17 forward?

18 MR. MEISER: Because, realistically, with 19 our experience in trying to settle the Allan Deane 20 part, we went through eight drafts.

21 THE COURT: That's the problem. That's 22 problem.

23 MR. MEISER: Well, I think a definite time
24 period gives the Court and gives all the parties 25 knowledge that they either meet a deadline or they

1 don't. Either in sixty days, for example, there 2 is a settlement between the parties or there is 3 rezoning. The Supreme Court said originally 4 ninety days after an invalidation there's supposed
5 to be rezoning. In all the cases it realistically
6 has taken longer than ninety days. The Court can 7 pick whatever time it determines is appropriate;
8 sixty days was our suggestion. But in -- are you 9 thinking of a particular --

10 THE COURT: Yes. I'm only interrupting,
11 though, because I'd like to get you all finished 12 before we have to stop at ten forty-five. If we 13 can't, we'll just take a break.

14 I might say first of all, that I really 15 enjoyed your brief and it was supremely well done 16 and, I think, the first time the whole issue of 17 settlement of Mount Laurel cases and the class
18 action concept has really been adequately 19 presented to the Court. It was extremely helpful.

20 There's one overriding policy concern which 21 you may want to address now or later, and that is 22 whether the position the Public Advocate is taking 23 is not somewhat inconsistent with the expressed 24 purposes of a builders remedy as set forth on page 25 279 of the opinion, which is to maintain a

1 significant level of Mount Laurel litigation, to 2 compensate developers who have invested time and 3 resources in pursuing the litigation, and also 4 that it's the most likely means to insure that 5 lower income housing is actually built. Those are 6 the three reasons the Court gives.

7 Now, having expressed the negative side of 8 permitting tag-along plaintiffs to Mr. Trombadore, 9 I've now expressed the positive side, I think, and 10 I wonder whether a position which would 11 essentially boil down to rewarding the first 12 builder in the door, or maybe the first and second 13 or whatever, those who sued initially, so to 14 speak, as opposed to those who sued later, while 15 it is sufficient from a Court's standpoint and 16 while it might promote settlement, might not it 17 slow down the level of Mount Laurel litigation to 18 an undesirable point?

19 MR. MEISER: I think that's a very 20 difficult question, and I think the truth is that 21 only experience will give us the final answer.

22 What I'd like to do, though, is, for a 23 second, go through what we see would happen in a 24 settlement proceeding, because that might be 25 helpful to the Court in answering that question.

1 We see that if a settlement is reached,
2 either by the first builder, in a builder's case, 3 and the town, or by individual plaintiffs, that 4 there must be a hearing. The hearing is somewhat 5 different and there is a lot of literature class 6 actions, because the Court has to approve the 7 reasonableness of the settlement, but at the same 8 time the Court is not making an independent 9 judgment of what the underlying status is. In 10 case after case, it talks about this - the Court 11 has to have enough information to decide if it's 12 reasonable without a full trial, because if 13 there's a full trial, we shouldn't have 14 settlement. You know, by definition we aren't 15 having settlement. The reason that the Court 16 hears from everybody, from absent people, is 17 because it gives the Court the maximum amount of 18 information to decide if, in fact, it is within 19 the zone of reasonableness.

20 I think that if a Court finds a settlement 21 is reasonable, that there's a substantial 22 benefit - we'd get the litigation over and we'd 23 get immediately on with the process of building 24 housing, and I also feel it will give other 25 municipalities much more of an incentive to settle

1 rather than drag out litigation for four or five 2 years.

3 But let's assume we came up with a
4 settlement, the Public Advocate representing 5 Ceiswick plaintiffs in Bedminster, and we came up 6 with a fair share of eight hundred, the issue
7 before the Court that I think would be in a
8 settlement hearing is, is eight hundred a 9 reasonably acceptable number that the Court could 10 accept? It doesn't mean that if there was a trial
11 the Court would find eight hundred. The Court 12 might feel if there was a trial, it would accept 13 nine thirty-three. But the Court would hear 14 testimony from Timber, from Dobbs, to say that 15 eight hundred is so outrageous, so unreasonable, 16 that no reasonable settlement could be based on a 17 premise of eight hundred units; a reasonable 18 settlement can't possibly be anything less than 19 nine fifty or a thousand.

20 Based on that information, the Court makes 21 a decision. The decision isn't, as I said 22 earlier, what is the fair share number; it's, is 23 the eight hundred number a reasonable settlement
24 taking into consideration the goal of ending 25 litigation and getting on with the business of 1 building housing?

2 I think that giving developers that
3 opportunity to be heard but still giving the Court 4 the right to approve a settlement is in the best
5 interest of moving the Mount Laurel doctrine 6 along.

7 THE COURT: Assuming that intervention were 8 permitted in this case at this time --

9 MR. MEISER: Yes.

10 THE COURT: -- for either or both Timber or 11 Dobbs, and assume by virtue of that intervention, 12 a right to builders remedy was created. There 13 would be a significant difference, would there 14 not, to denying intervention and permitting
15 participation only in a class action settlement
16 mode, if I can use that. There's no builders
17 remedy and, therefore, the -- it would be a race 18 to the courthouse doors, so to speak, in every 19 municipality.

20 Obviously, a builder who doesn't have a 21 builders remedy is disadvantaged to the extent 22 that, the builder who does is going to consume X 23 portion of the fair share. In some towns it might 24 be fifty percent; it might be a hundred percent.
25 I can think of one town in Somerset County where

1 we have ten plaintiffs, and one of the plaintiffs 2 can, arguably at least, satisfy the full fair
3 share. There's another town in Middlesex County 4 that that can happen to, and I'm sure there are 5 many out there that would have a significant 6 portion of their fair share satisfied. And yet we 7 would, in effect, be giving the first plaintiff a 8 leg up and certainly undercutting the builders 9 remedy as to anyone else. I think that's -- that 10 would be the effect of it, wouldn't it?

11 MR. MEISER: It would. And I think the 12 goal is getting the housing built, getting a fair 13 share determination down, and getting the housing 14 built. And I don't think it's crucial that every 15 developer gets a developers remedy. Let me give 16 you an example, if I can.

17 Let's assume -- we'll take the extreme 18 case, where there are ten developers and it's all 19 consolidated in one case. The way I read the 20 class action precedents, the town could reach a 21 settlement with developer one, four and six, and 22 say, "We're meeting our fair share," by rezoning 23 their lands, giving them the developers remedy, 24 and, "We're leaving the other seven developers out 25 in the cold." If this Court follows the class

1 action precedents that I've cited on page nine and 2 page ten, if the Court finds that reasonably 3 accommodates the town's fair share, the Court, in 4 my opinion, could enter a judgment approving the 5 reasonableness of that settlement. Three 6 developers win, seven lose. But the real 7 beneficiaries are not the developers - they're the 8 beneficiaries in the Mount Laurel II decision - 9 the beneficiaries are low and moderate income 10 people, and if the Court finds that the housing is 11 going to get built in that way, then I think the 12 ultimate purposes of Mount Laurel have been 13 satisfied.

14 THE COURT: Let's suppose that the 15 procedure which you propose, which, by the way, is 16 very attractive from the standpoint of my own job, 17 if that were followed, and in this case Bedminster
18 rezoned and came in with sites that were useable
19 and had no significant constraints and were zoned 20 without any cost-generating devices and met all 21 the requirements that Mount Laurel talks about, 22 and then Dobbs and Timber, or either, said, "Well, 23 they may be Mount Laurel sites, but we are also,
24 and we'll promise that we'll build ours
25 immediately," the other sites, we don't know.

1 They're on the open market. They may or they may 2 not go. Do we then develop a kind of 3 quasi-builders remedy because of availability? I
4 mean, do we say, "Well, they didn't have a 5 builders remedy, but they should be a preferred 6 consideration, and the town did not do that?" And 7 yet the opinion allows the town, after it
8 satisfies the successful builder, to choose 9 whatever sites it wants within reason.

10 Would it become unreasonable under those 11 circumstances to deny Dobbs and Timber if they 12 were ready to build and they were, let's say, 13 within the same general framework of the type of 14 building that the town was going to permit? Now, 15 you need more; you need to know where they're 16 going to be in the town or things of that sort.
17 Let's assume they're in the same general area as 18 the other sites. I know it's a lot of 19 hypothetical.

20 MR. MEISER: Right.

21 THE COURT: But what I'm getting at is,
22 doesn't it put the Court in the posture of 23 possibly losing active interested builders and 24 allowing the town - and I don't mean Bedminster in 25 this case - to select those sites which maybe it

1 knows, because of local factors, are less likely 2 to go? There may be less development pressures on 3 those sites and, therefore, may it not dilute the 4 amount of Mount Laurel building we'd get?

5 That was a long question, but I think you 6 know what I'm getting at.

7 MR. MEISER: I understand. I think there 8 are a couple of options for the Court. One is to 9 determine if some housing be built immediately; if 10 some of the units are going to get built; in other 11 words, half of the fair share is going to get 12 constructed immediately. I think the Court might 13 be much more willing to say, "Give the town a 14 chance," rather than, "If we don't know about any 15 of the land--

16 THE COURT: Let me interrupt you. I'm 17 sorry. I'm getting flagged from out there. I'd 18 like to start your answer again. We're going to 19 have to take a break. They're taking a composite 20 picture of all the judges and it's got to be in 21 here.

22 (Matter in recess.)

23 THE COURT: Okay, Mr. Meiser, before the 24 interruption you started to answer the question.
25 I don't know if you still remember the question,

1 but --

2 MR. MEISER: Well, generally, let me just 3 suggest that I think the question does confront us 4 with two undesirable results. On one hand, it is 5 undesirable to choose for low income people to 6 rezone land that might not get built rather than 7 zoning land for a developer that's ready, willing 8 and able to build. I think that is an undesirable
9 result. But there is also a second undesirable 10 result, and that undesirable result would be to 11 say in a case where a town is being sued by ten 12 developers, that they can't settle that case 13 unless they give all ten of the developers what 14 they want, up to their fair share, regardless of 15 whatever reasons they might have against 16 particular development. Because I think we say 17 that there isn't going to be a settlement and 18 we're forcing towns to litigate all the way up to 19 the Appellate Division.

20 So let me suggest two possibilities that 21 the Court might want to consider. First of all, I 22 don't believe that repose has to be unconditional.
23 We have entered into several settlements in Morris 24 County that have contingencies. A town wants to 25 zone certain properties or try to get

1 senior-citizen housing. We have said we will give 2 you one year or two years or three years to see if 3 that happens, but we want built into the agreement
4 a fall-back position if that doesn't happen by a 5 certain date. And I think an order of repose
6 could say the same thing. We will give town X a 7 right for three years to zone these properties 8 that it wants over the interest of certain 9 developers who are in the court and whom the Court
10 has a reason not to want to give a developers 11 remedy to. But if a preliminary site plan isn't 12 submitted in '87 or '88 or whatever time period 13 the Court fixes, then a condition of repose will 14 be, in that event, that this other property is 15 ultimately rezoned. And I think the Court has 16 that kind of discretion.

17 My second suggestion would be, if a Court
18 finds that a town wants to rezone other properties 19 rather than the property of a developer who's 20 before the Court, the Court can inquire into 21 whether there's a legitimate municipal reason for 22 it.

23 For example, I can see a situation where a 24 town might be concerned that eleven developments 25 in eleven parts of the town might so lead to

1 sprawl and unmanageable growth as to be counter to 2 all the goals of orderly planning, and that might 3 be a legitimate reason to say that the developers 4 remedy shouldn't be given in certain parts of the 5 town.

6 So one thing a Court can do is ask the 7 Court -- ask the town, "What reasons do you have 8 for preferring this piece of land over the 9 developer's parcel? Is it reasonable and 10 consistent with legitimate planning?" And the 11 Court can also use the master to make that 12 recommendation.

13 So I don't have an answer that completely 14 takes care of the problem. I think the Court has 15 to make some sort of trade-offs if it wants to get 16 settlements. But I think there are conditions to 17 see that the town is acting reasonable, and I've 18 tried to suggest two of them.

19 THE COURT: Let me ask you two other
20 questions. The first one: Are you suggesting 21 that if a town is sued by two or more builders 22 contemporaneously, within a short time span, that 23 the town could pick and choose, at least for the 24 purposes of settlement, and if they did so in a 25 reasonable manner, that the other builders

1 remedies could be terminated?

2 MR. MEISER: I would suggest that City of 3 Paterson versus Paterson General Hospital is a
4 precedent for that decision if the Court --

5 THE COURT: And in a policy matter, you see 6 see that as appropriate?

7 MR. MEISER: If the Court is interested
8 in -- sees that as an aid in protecting low income 9 people as a goal of that settlement, it could be 10 appropriate in those particular situations.

11 THE COURT: And you don't see at present,
12 at times, more than one builder in Mount Laurel 13 litigation adds to the aggressiveness or - I
14 suppose that's enough - with which the litigation
15 is pursued, and that perhaps the benefits of Mount 16 Laurel might be more efficiently, appropriately,
17 and fully to the Court so that, let's say, builder
18 number one and the town just don't cut a 19 sweetheart deal and the public interest is not as 20 adequately represented -- you know, I don't have 21 the Public Advocate in most of the litigation; I 22 don't have an urban league or a similar public 23 interest group, and the most that I can do if a 24 case is settled is to notify the public at large, 25 perhaps even bring in a Court-appointed expert,

1 but it's not the same, of course, when you have 2 plaintiffs who have their own individual interest 3 which they're seeking to sustain in terms of 4 seeing to it that the town is more quickly put to 5 its Mount Laurel obligation.

6 MR. MEISER: Well, the Court's saying it 7 has the power to approve a settlement in that 8 situation doesn't mean that the Court will approve 9 the settlement. Obviously, the second or the 10 eighth developer is going to be hurt; he's going 11 to put on some evidence vigorously opposing the 12 settlement. And the cases that I've read say, 13 obviously, the intensity of the opposition to the 14 settlement is one factor for the Court to 15 consider.

16 So the Court would have to make an 17 individual decision on a case by case basis, 18 whether it would ever approve a settlement in a 19 particular case, you know, in this situation. All 20 I'm saying is, I think it's clear the Court has 21 the power to do it.

22 THE COURT: All right. Did I interrupt you 23 from any other argument?

24 MR. MEISER: No. I think the Court has my 25 brief, and if there's any questions I'd be glad to 1 answer.

2 THE COURT: No. It was very well done. I
3 appreciate it.

4 All right, Mr. Hill. Do you wish to be 5 heard?

6 MR. HILL: Yes, your Honor, on two issues.
7 Although Hills Development Company generally
8 agrees with Mr. Meiser's brief and his argument, I 9 think there are a couple of issues that we'd like 10 the Court to look at that come out of this.

11 I think that the rule that Mr. Meiser
12 proposes would work best if we had a municipality
13 which had a course of action proposed and a 14 commitment to that course of action and were here
15 before the Court saying, "We're going to rezone 16 this, this, this, and this, and we've calculated 17 our fair share to be Y, and we're passing that 18 ordinance, and we ask the Court, with that degree 19 of risk, to look at our rezoning and approve it 20 and give us the judgment of repose."

21 What we have here - although I'm very 22 satisfied that I think we have resolved the 23 Pluckerman issues and your Honor has an order 24 that's been agreed to by all parties - but as for 25 the rest of the town, we are just the most

1 favorite landowner. We find ourselves in a little 2 bit of a position of the favorite concubine who's 3 being whispered in one ear, "Your land on the top 4 of the hill is the nicest," but in the other ear, 5 "But if things don't go the way we like them, we 6 may zone it into a park," which isn't that much 7 different from Dobbs's position or Timber's 8 position. And I think that a town that wants to 9 sit there and not make a commitment to a land use 10 policy, should not be allowed to hold out 11 intervenors.

12 I think that what troubles me the most as 13 an attorney is seeing another land developer, 14 basically Timber Line, being proposed for 15 down-zoning, when I know the town has a master 16 plan and they've made all kinds of conclusions as 17 to the appropriateness of that land for a given 18 use. And I worry, because I've got other cases, 19 and do I have to tell every one of my clients that 20 if there's -- if the town in which they own any 21 land is involved in a Mount Laurel litigation they 22 run the risk that the Mount Laurel Judge will 23 allow a down-zoning of that land, irregardless of 24 all the other law that exists in the State of New 25 Jersey on appropriateness and on master planning

1 and on making choices?

2 I think that there has to be some integrity
3 in the land choosing process, and we have a great 4 body of law, and the unfortunate -- on that in New 5 Jersey -- and the unfortunateness of this issue, 6 from my point of view as an attorney, is that 7 Mount Laurel can probably be read to say, "Once 8 you're doing your fair share having to do with 9 housing and other uses, we don't care if the rest
10 of the town -- we don't care if the town is zoned 11 five-acre." If that's a rejection of due process 12 to other landowners, it's a very serious decision, 13 and as the attorney for Hills, I would hate to see 14 the Court trample in such a way on the rights of 15 other landowners, that I, as an attorney, had to 16 advise Hills that I have grave doubts in the 17 benefits which we'd receive from the Court's 18 decision as being withstandable of another forum
19 or federal court. And I think those landowners --
20 and I most sympathize with Mr. Trombadore's 21 position, because I wonder if he could take a 22 down-zoning to another judge in a conventional 23 zoning case and argue a case the way it should be 24 tried and say, "Look at the master planning and 25 look at the decisions," and have Bedminster say,

1 "Well, Judge Serpentelli said this was all right,"
2 and lose his rights.

3 Just as I wonder what's going to happen to 4 Hills if things don't work out the way Bedminster 5 chooses, despite their master plan, despite their 6 land use choices, and they decide to down-zone the 7 top of the hills and we end up litigating with 8 them, and your Honor takes the position that just 9 because they're meeting some quantified fair 10 share, that we have no conventional rights as 11 opposed to Mount Laurel rights to protect our 12 reliance interest on land that was rezoned subject 13 to a Court decision based on taking and based on 14 other law, not out of which has been thrown out by 15 the Supreme Court of New Jersey.

16 And it seems to me that Mr. Meiser's 17 position would be most tenable if we were faced 18 here with a municipality which came to this Court 19 and was willing to defend the integrity of their 20 land use decision and their master plan and said, 21 "These are our choices and we will run the risk 22 and we believe in what we're giving you, your 23 Honor, and we've passed the ordinance and we'd 24 like a judgment of repose." I think such a town 25 with that kind of courage and integrity in making

1 choices maybe should be entitled to the protection
2 of having those choices quibbled over by tag-along 3 plaintiffs.

4 But a municipality such as Bedminster, 5 which has come in with absolutely no choices and 6 is willing -- and has told this Court, you know, 7 if the top of the hill -- if Dobbs goes, then the 8 top of the hill in Bedminster may be zoned to a 9 park land, and that Timber Line is being 10 down-zoned despite the fact that they have master 11 planning decisions which were -- and a land use 12 rationale which, under any conventional theories, 13 would be upheld, I'm convinced, in conventional 14 zoning courts. I have a lot of trouble with 15 giving a municipality that wants to have it both 16 ways - they want to keep out all the intervenors 17 and they want to make no commitment until the 18 Court has approved their plan, which they have yet 19 to present to the Court.

20 And I think that with the system that Mr.
21 Meiser proposes -- and it so happens that we're 22 aware of that law because we've been working with 23 the Public Advocate's office in Morris Township 24 where there is a settlement under consideration by 25 Judge Skillman where a town has come and rezoned

1 the entire town and put in the zoning ordinance
2 that the ordinance doesn't take effect until there
3 is a judgment of repose, and it seems on its face 4 to meet the fair share number, and they've made 5 their choices and some of the plaintiffs are happy 6 and some aren't happy, and they're prepared to 7 defend those choices and they've committed 8 themselves to the extent of this ordinance caveat, 9 except to the extent of this provision in the 10 ordinance which says it isn't effective until the 11 judge has given the judgment of repose. And I
12 think that town is entitled to different treatment 13 than a municipality which won't come in and which 14 doesn't seem to base their land use choices on 15 rational planning, but rather on, "What can we get 16 away with this time?"

17 Your Honor, that is our position.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Does the planning
19 board --

20 MR. FERGUSON: So speaketh the sayer --

21 THE COURT: No, no. The planning board.

22 MR. THOMAS: With regard to the questions
23 that have been raised by Mr. Hill, I think the 24 planning board has certainly dealt with all of the 25 zoned plan that has been established in Bedminster

1 Township, and I think the Court must realize, and 2 does of course realize, that the zoned plan that 3 Bedminster was given, in fact, was given by Judge
4 Leahy back in March of 1980 as a result of a Court 5 order, and that was based upon litigation that had 6 been going on, as Mr. Hill well knows, brought by 7 the Hills Development Company. It was a plan with 8 regard to the requirements of the then Mount 9 Laurel I. The master plan was looking at the 10 requirements of the law as it then was applicable
11 to Bedminster Township, and I think that was a 12 reasonable approach to take.

13 The master plan certainly envisioned the 14 evolvement of the law as it has come to the point 15 of an obligation under Mount Laurel II. The plans 16 that we have submitted, I think, have to be 17 predicated and recognized under what has gone on 18 in this twelve- or thirteen-years' worth of 19 litigation.

20 So from that point of view, I think it's a 21 unique situation that Bedminster found itself in.
22 It was told that it would zone its overall 23 development corridor in a certain way. So from 24 the point of view that our master plan decisions
25 are, in fact, evidence that the Timber's property

1 or the Hill's property, for that matter, have been 2 zoned specifically and are justified, certainly 3 they are justified, but it's within the context of 4 what we were told to do by prior litigation. So I 5 think it's that kind of concept that has to be 6 recognized by the Court in regard to these 7 traditional zoning concepts that Mr. Hill refers 8 to.

9 THE COURT: All right, Mr. O'Connor.

10 MR. O'CONNOR: I'd like to just comment on 11 Mr. Meiser's position, I think first on his class 12 action settlement arrangement versus a full 13 compliance hearing.

14 We use that in the Mount Laurel case right
15 now that's going on before Judge Gibson, but there 16 is a major distinction. There was a class, and 17 the class that we were noticing to see whether the 18 settlement was reasonable, were the low and 19 moderate income people that we represented, and 20 there wasn't any other interest involved there.
21 Here, there is no class of builders. There's a 22 whole -- there's obviously different interests
23 here, and in that case --

24 THE COURT: Just a second. Doesn't the 25 builder represent the class? Isn't a Mount Laurel

1 action a class action in a general sense? Let me 2 answer that.

3 The Court has given some fairly strong
4 indication that it might be. If you read page 288
5 of the opinion and in particularly footnote 43 on 6 page 289, there's some rather strong language that 7 at least equates to it, including the statement 8 that, "The scope of remedies authorized by this 9 opinion is similar to those used in a rapidly 10 growing area of law commonly referred to as 11 institutional litigation of public law
12 litigation." And up above, on page 288, it 13 specifically uses the language, "It does have 14 little difference from declaring that the zoning 15 ordinance is invalid on equal protection grounds, 16 the effect of that often being simply to allow a 17 plaintiff to use his property in a manner not 18 permitted by the ordinance, referring to the 19 builder, but to give the same rights to an entire 20 class."

21 It seems to me that there's some support
22 for at least a concept in Mount Laurel litigation 23 being promoted by a builder.

24 MR. O'CONNOR: What I was saying, the stage 25 we're at in Mount Laurel, we didn't get to the

1 ordinance yet. We were just giving notice on the 2 one particular -- the mobile home park, and there,
3 the class that was affected as the beneficiaries 4 were low and moderate. In that sense, having 5 objections come forward and setting up that type 6 of a procedure might be appropriate.

7 THE COURT: And the other side of the coin
8 in Mount Laurel II, notwithstanding the presence 9 of a representative of a public interest group in 10 Mount Laurel itself, the Court said, "We're going 11 to give Davis a builders remedy anyway." That 12 seems somewhat inconsistent with Mr. Meiser's 13 argument.

14 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, the point I'm making
15 is, when you get away from, like, the Davis 16 situation, which is just notice to low and 17 moderate income, as to whether they think it's a 18 good project and whether that's acceptable, an 19 objection type of proceeding there might be 20 appropriate. But when you get into the full-blown 21 ordinance and a question of fair share and sites
22 and different sites and competition between a town
23 plan and a builder's desire, there, I think, you 24 undercut the Court - even though it might be 25 easier - you said for yourself, I think you

1 undercut the independent findings if you establish 2 a limited test of reasonableness. And I think 3 that it's appropriate to make sure that Mount 4 Laurel works, that you keep the integrity of the 5 builders remedy. I mean, I was involved in this 6 since 1970 and the whole evolution of the 7 doctrine, and from '75 to '83, without the 8 builders remedy, there was very little action and 9 very little effort going on to try to implement 10 Mount Laurel I. The towns weren't doing anything, 11 and there was no pressure on them, which is 12 precisely why they put the builders remedy in.

13 THE COURT: Well, let me ask you this: I
14 agree obviously with what you said, and I think 15 the genius of the Court's opinion was to promote 16 builder activity in a manner that it has. The 17 question is, is it going too far and is that 18 counter-productive to what the Court sought to 19 achieve? I mean, a town that gets sued by nine 20 plaintiffs throws up its hands and says, you know, 21 "What are we going to do? Give us a chance." Is 22 it creating the impression that there's going to 23 be such huge builders remedies in town after town, 24 that they'd rather fight than settle, whereas if 25 there's going to be a single builders remedy and a

1 review of the reasonableness of their package, 2 they might rather settle.

3 The scope of the litigation - and I hear 4 this time and time again from municipal 5 attorneys - the scope of the litigation is giving 6 the impression in their municipality their 7 exposure is so great, but that they have no other 8 alternative but to fight because they're being 9 sued by so many plaintiffs.

10 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, I'd like to just have 11 the Court step back and take a look at the towns.
12 These are towns that are clearly performing 13 unconstitutional acts in discriminating against 14 the poor. If they weren't, they wouldn't be in 15 that posture.

16 THE COURT: I'm not defending the towns.
17 I'm talking in terms --

18 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, you have to look at 19 that in viewing how sympathetic you are to their 20 position.

21 THE COURT: I'm not sympathetic at all to 22 their plight in terms of being sued. I'm 23 concerned about the bigger issue, and that is the 24 promotion of the Mount Laurel goals in the most 25 efficient manner.

1 Now, the Court clearly focused in the 2 opinion on voluntary compliance, it hoped that the 3 threat of a builders remedy - and I use threat in 4 a good sense - would bring about the voluntary 5 compliance, and that we wouldn't have to have the 6 huge number of cases being filed which are being 7 filed. I have over fifty cases pending before me 8 at this time and the vast majority of them have 9 been filed since January 1 of this year. Given 10 the, you know, given the particular nature of this 11 litigation, that's a lot of action, and it's not 12 slowing down.

13 Now, the towns that are being sued by more 14 than one builder are the ones who are most 15 difficult to settle and they're the ones most 16 reluctant to settle. I have one town that's been 17 sued by one builder and called and said, "Judge, 18 if you'll cut off all -- any other builder
19 remedies, we'll give you your compliance package
20 immediately, but we want to zone our town in a 21 reasonable fashion. We're willing to have the 22 Public Advocate notified; we're willing to have a 23 full public hearing on the reasonableness of it;
24 we're willing to have a Court-appointed expert 25 review it, but we don't want all of this

1 litigation, and if we do get all the litigation, 2 we're going to fight it to the end." And I think 3 that is a rather expected, normal, and maybe 4 appropriate reaction.

5 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, let me respond to two 6 things. First, I think whatever the Courts do, if 7 they do it in a way that weakens the builders, the 8 potential use of the builders remedy, I think it's 9 too early in the evolution of Mount Laurel II 10 doctrine to do that, because I think that that is 11 a ploy of the towns, and I think that many of 12 those compliance proposals will be totally 13 inadequate, and there will not be the aggressive 14 party developer there to challenge it, and I just 15 cite this instance right here.

16 If Dobbs were not in this case to raise at 17 least three issues that I'm familiar with, I'm 18 confident they would not be raised.

19 THE COURT: You're suggesting that the 20 public interest is not being adequately 21 represented by the Public Advocate. I hate to put 22 it that bluntly, but that's what you're saying.

23 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, I'll put it that 24 bluntly. It's for two reasons. One is a question 25 of manpower and resources. They can't be every

1 place, and where they are present, they can't be 2 in the department that someone who has a private 3 interest would be. So I think that's one reason.

4 The second is that, I think that the Public
5 Advocate is a State institution, and regardless of 6 how large you spell Public Advocate and public 7 interest, they're influenced by the politics of 8 the day, and I think that's a reality, and so some 9 of the positions they take may be farther looking 10 down the road and may weaken a position that's 11 going before the Court than a private developer 12 who's coming in and raising issues like 13 affordability, site appropriateness, phasing, 14 sewers. None of those issues were raised
15 aggressively in this case by the Public Advocate.
16 The Dobbs' interest raised those questions, and I
17 think if we were not here, there would be a 18 settlement that I believe would be inadequate.

19 So there are two reasons. One is not to 20 weaken the incentive of the developers to come 21 forward, and, two, there is a valuable public 22 interest being presented, one, to get the housing 23 for the poor and, two, to make sure test proposals 24 that are coming before the town, irrespective of 25 whether the Public Advocate is involved, they are

1 not an absolute gospel to blessing something that 2 will guarantee it, as well as if there is an 3 adversary proceeding, as we have here.

4 I think on the question of the Court being 5 concerned that towns are going to get bombed or 6 overwhelmed with litigation, I don't think that's 7 the case. I think that there will be a lot of 8 lawsuits, but as the three judges determine 9 region, fair share, sub-allocating the fair share, 10 then I think that a lot of the lengthiness and 11 time involved will be cut down, and I think that 12 all these other issues -- I've been reading
13 complaints and answers filed by the towns. I 14 would say that ninety percent of the answers that 15 I have read would go by the board in a couple of 16 weeks, things like standing and all other 17 procedural issues, exhaustion of remedy, all the 18 additional things that I don't think this Court or 19 the three judges are dealing with.

20 So I think that even though it sounds good 21 and it sounds like the towns might get 22 overwhelmed, I think when you look at the 23 realities of it, that this is really not the case.
24 I think it's a ploy to avoid compliance or to put 25 forth a plan that will get your blessing with your

1 fifty cases, and if you have a hundred, in all
2 respect to the Court, it's going to be difficult
3 to really get into each one of those, and there
4 may be a tendency, if they're going with developer 5 A - and I think this is a perfect example of that 6 kind of a sweetheart arrangement - if -- I think 7 you used that term. I think that the --

8 THE COURT: Not necessarily with respect to 9 this litigation, but I did use the term.

10 MR. O'CONNOR: Well, I have a different 11 opinion of the depth and appropriateness of this 12 settlement with developer A, let's say, without 13 using names, just pointing to Henry, but I think 14 that that could be prejudicial to the interest of 15 one plan, because, you say, "Look, we've bought 16 260, and they only want eight hundred. So they 17 got twenty-five percent. Let's see what happens."

18 So, one, it might hurt the poor who need 19 those other six hundred units, and, two, it's 20 going to back off private builders who are going 21 to say, "Why should I go through what Dobbs is 22 doing, if I'm going to get the rug pulled out from 23 under me, even though I'm raising good issues, 24 even though I have a relatively comparable site," 25 let's say, and all the rest, "and even though I'm

1 willing to spend money and kick into the 2 monitoring system? Why should I do it, Mr.
3 Basralian? Should I go forward? You give me the 4 answer." And he's going to have to say, "Well, it 5 doesn't look like you might get all the way there; 6 around third base, and then the game will be 7 called." I mean, that's going to undercut in the 8 evolution of this doctrine the chances that the 9 poor have for housing.

10 Now, if we're ten years down the road, and 11 maybe there is housing going on, and maybe the 12 towns are coming around through the pressure of 13 the builders remedy, then it might be wise to take 14 a different look. But I can give you experience 15 of '70 to '75 where nothing happened; '75 to '83
16 where nothing happened, and the towns were all 17 applauding and saying, "We don't have to do 18 anything." And now, for the first time in the 19 last fifteen months, something is happening and 20 all of a sudden the towns now want to say, "Geez, 21 that's too much. We'll do it ourselves." I don't 22 believe that and I think the Court should not be 23 hoodwinked by that kind of municipal response.

24 THE COURT: We have an interesting
25 situation before us in the Urban League-Carteret

1 case, in which there are seven defendants, four of 2 whom have not been sued by a builder, and three of 3 whom have, and the case has been tried now for 4 about thirteen or fourteen days, and the four who 5 were not sued by a builder had settled, and the 6 three who were sued by a builder have not, and I 7 don't know what one draws from that, but that 8 could be supportive of your argument or it might 9 not be.

10 Okay. Anything further?

11 MR. O'CONNOR: Yes. Just the one
12 question. It hasn't been put before the Court, 13 and that's the question of the concept of the 14 over-zoning versus, like, a strict five sites, 15 hundred units a site, fair share, five hundred,
16 and if the Court is going to rely on builder one 17 doing a hundred units and four sites being done by 18 the market, where's the builder stand who's 19 seeking a remedy on sites six and seven under the 20 concept of over-zoning in such a kind of 21 compliance hearing, or is that over-zoning no 22 longer relevant anymore, even though the market 23 hope is the only hope that the poor have?

24 So I think that's another reason for not 25 pushing out a private developer seeking a remedy,

1 because I think that, like a plan, needs to have 2 that over-zoning component, and clearly, that's 3 not the case here. They're looking for strict 4 compliance on a number-call basis and say, "Hey, 5 we have sites one through five. That does it and 6 let's go home," and hope that the Court buys that 7 Hills is going to do number one and that the other 8 four will happen over six years. And I think if 9 the Court would deal with the concept of the 10 over-zoning, that that would be another reason for 11 opening the door granting intervention and 12 involvement of builders who have site six, seven 13 and eight, let's say.

14 THE COURT: Do you see any difference in 15 the appropriateness of Mr. Meiser's suggestion?
16 And I've been saying Mr. Meiser, by the way. I
17 think, to some extent, Mr. Ferguson also pursued 18 that in his brief.

19 But if I may call it the Public Advocate's 20 suggestion, do you see any distinction in a case
21 in which a single builder is sued, the town 22 immediately responds and seeks to rezone, proposes 23 a settlement to the Court, or is very close to a 24 settlement, and then is sued? Let's say it's 25 within days of proposing a settlement, or thirty

1 days, and then it's sued by a second builder, do 2 you see any distinction in the appropriateness of 3 the class action in that setting as opposed to 4 this setting in which, at least Dobbs can contend 5 it's been here for all this period of time, if not 6 formally, and Timber can contend that it has had 7 zoning of a Mount Laurel nature for some period of 8 time? Do you see a distinction in that setting?
9 Would it be appropriate outside of the setting of 10 this case to pursue that sort of approach to a 11 resolution of the Township's fair share 12 obligation?

13 MR. O'CONNOR: I would just make it clear 14 that that's not the situation here. But in 15 response to your hypothetical, I wouldn't want -- 16 I can obviously see the distinction, and the 17 feeling that the Court, the town, and the Public
18 Advocate might have, say, "Let's narrow the test 19 and try to get this settled because of that 20 policy." I wouldn't like to see that happen at 21 this stage of Mount Laurel, because I think that 22 the hope that the poor have of getting housing is 23 not some inconvenience to the town or some paper
24 plan with the hope of market compliance, but I 25 think the real hope is builders.

1 Now, you might want to scrutinize closer in 2 that situation the plan of that particular builder 3 in his ability to carry out what he's saying. But 4 I wouldn't want to go so far as to say that there 5 should be a different test and he should be 6 excluded, because I think then you're back to -- 7 now, it might be different if there were five 8 developers and they meet ninety percent or 9 something like that. I feel that the more open 10 the market hope is for the poor, the less chance 11 they're going to have and the more it looks like a 12 paper settlement, even though the provision of the 13 ordinance might sound good. And where ever 14 there's a builder coming in that's going to 15 deliver, I don't think the Court in the interest 16 of just getting another case off the docket and 17 getting some ordinance settled should, you know, 18 back off and exclude that particular developer,
19 even though I can see where the Public Advocate 20 may take that position because of a broader 21 interest, like State-wide, to make, in my opinion, 22 to make peace with a lot of the towns so that the 23 politic issues subside. And I think that's where 24 it's coming from more than the interest of housing 25 for the poor delivered, or else there would be no

1 reason to give such credence to towns that are 2 being so exclusionary for so long versus the 3 private industry, who, for the first time in the 4 last fifteen months, is trying to push in there 5 and deliver the housing.

6 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Ferguson, you
7 want to be heard or no?

8 MR. FERGUSON: I do. I'm touched at that 9 Mr. Hill characterized his client as a concubine.
10 Mr. Hill, the slayer of seals, who's covered me
11 with blood, stamped around his office on Wednesday 12 and said, "You do what we say or we'll pave the 13 whole town." If that's the concubine --

14 THE COURT: You mean people do things like 15 that?

16 MR. FERGUSON: No, sir. That's purely
17 hypothetical.

18 I'm touched that Mr. O'Connor represents a 19 man who's so concerned with the poor. I hold in 20 my hand, your Honor, the pleadings filed from the 21 Dobbs litigation. Until the amended complaint, 22 the only position before this Court was a regional 23 shopping center, a fair share regional shopping 24 center. By the way, I agree with the position of 25 Mr. Meiser. We had it in our brief in somewhat

1 different language, but the same concept. We 2 acknowledge that the Court can't cut the 3 sweetheart deal. It has an obligation to the 4 constitution and the Mount Laurel doctrine to hold 5 a settlement hearing or compliance hearing.
6 Whether the standards of proof should be different 7 at those two hearings is another question. We 8 don't have to address it at this point. But we do
9 agree with that concept and we support what Mr.
10 Meiser says.

11 It's our own suggestion as well that these 12 motions to intervene be denied without prejudice 13 to give the parties a chance to do what we've be 14 trying to do for fourteen years.

15 We have particular problems with this case.
16 In the order that was given to the Court, the 17 second to last paragraph says, "This shall not be 18 a precedent for any other case because the facts 19 and circumstances are different." The reason for 20 that is obvious - no other case in the State has 21 this background. We have to deal with it. And 22 one of the things we have to deal with is the 23 timeliness of the application, particularly that 24 of Mr. Dobbs.

25 Mr. Dobbs, by his own admission, has been

1 trying to get zoning relief in Bedminster Township 2 since August of 1979. My right hand holds the 3 pleading book of the Allan Deane case. This is 4 all since August of 1979. And throughout this 5 entire set of proceedings, including the zoning -- 6 rezoning process with Mr. Raymond, appointed by 7 Judge Leahy, Mr. Dobbs never sought to intervene.
8 And the plain fact of the matter was, he didn't do 9 it because he didn't think it would do him any 10 good because he wanted a shopping center. I'm not 11 going to dwell on this too long. I know we've 12 briefed it and the Court is well aware of the 13 facts, but I do think the application to intervene 14 at this late date is extraordinarily untimely and 15 cries out for denial on that ground alone.

16 THE COURT: Let me ask you: Where is the 17 condemnation proceeding as of today?

18 MR. FERGUSON: The bond ordinance had been 19 introduced by the Township on May 21 for four 20 million dollars plus, and the -- that's scheduled 21 for adoption --

22 MR. O'CONNELL: A hearing on June 18th.

23 MR. FERGUSON: June 18th. The Township
24 intends to proceed with that. We have to. Under 25 the statute, we must negotiate in good faith with

1 Mr. Dobbs once the ordinance is in place before 2 you can go to condemnation.

3 As to the compliance package which Mr. Hill
4 says Bedminster, or, he infers, if I understand 5 Mr. Hill and I'm not always sure I do, but if he 6 is inferring that we have shown bad faith by not 7 putting the compliance package forward and 8 trusting in the Court, my recollection is that we 9 introduced amendments that we thought complied 10 with Mount Laurel II in June or so of 1983, and at 11 the request of Mr. Hill himself and this Court, we 12 withheld any further action pending the 13 resolution, the investigation, by Mr. Raymond of 14 the whole fair share number. We now have a 15 proposed package as a result of everything that 16 has gone on, and we are prepared to implement it 17 in a very short period of time. I would say 18 within thirty days, although -- I would say that 19 we can probably do it within thirty days. I think 20 sixty is safer.

21 There's absolutely no question in my mind 22 but that the rule that Mr. Dobbs is looking for,
23 and Timbers, would open up Mount Laurel litigation 24 to a point where you, in effect, have no zoning at 25 all for the Township. The Court is taking

1 responsibility to adjudicate all the claims which 2 the Court in Mount Laurel II said don't belong in 3 Mount Laurel litigation; that is, taking the 4 appropriateness of the condemnation procedure, all 5 the conventional --

6 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait. On the 7 condemnation issue, the Appellate Division has 8 just remanded a case to me that says that I have 9 to decide - I have to decide - whether 10 condemnation is being used as a, quote, thinly 11 veiled attempt - I think the quote should stop 12 there. Maybe "attempt" isn't even right, but 13 thinly veiled is there - to deny a Mount Laurel 14 remedy. So it appears as though I'm going to have 15 to decide that issue in that case, and I don't 16 know whether or not it exists in this case.

17 Mr. Basralian, the ordinance as introduced 18 as I understand it, authorizes some four million 19 dollars to acquire the parcel which Mr. Dobbs has 20 the option on. Have you decided that your 21 position with respect to an offer which will 22 follow, and must follow under the condemnation 23 law --

24 MR. BASRALIAN: First of all, I don't know
25 how many acres it covers, your Honor, and I

1 haven't seen the ordinance yet. I don't believe 2 it's the whole tract. Is that correct or --

3 MR. O'CONNELL: Two hundred and nine acres, 4 the entire tract.

5 MR. BASRALIAN: Two hundred and nine acres.

6 THE COURT: What I'm asking you is, if 7 you're going to contest the condemnation. Based 8 upon an offer of the maximum authorization under 9 the ordinance, they can't offer anymore.

10 MR. BASRALIAN: We intend to contest any 11 offer, your Honor, because whether you wish to 12 quote it or not, I do view it as a very thinly 13 veiled threat to attempt to prevent the relief we 14 seek. It's a recurring dream of the municipality, 15 and it continues to be so.

16 THE COURT: So that negotiations at the 17 authorized amount would be fruitless.

18 MR. BASRALIAN: I believe it will be. This 19 is the first I've heard as to the amount, your 20 Honor, and I've not consulted --

21 THE COURT: Your client just shook his 22 head.

23 MR. BASRALIAN: Up or down, sir?

24 THE COURT: In the affirmative. I take it 25 it's in the affirmative.

1 You want to consult?

2 MR. BASRALIAN: Fruitless.

3 MR. FERGUSON: Mr. O'Connell correctly
4 points out, your Honor, that we have to negotiate
5 with the owners and I think it has to be a 6 three-way negotiation on that.

7 THE COURT: Well, that may be, but if Mr.
8 Dobbs has an option on the property, he's going to 9 have to be involved and --

10 MR. FERGUSON: No question. I'm not 11 saying --

12 THE COURT: Well, I don't know how this 13 settlement could take place without his 14 concurrence.

15 MR. BASRALIAN: That's correct.

16 MR. FERGUSON: The point is, in a 17 condemnation we have to proceed against the owners 18 of the property.

19 THE COURT: Yes.

20 MR. FERGUSON: And we have to negotiate
21 with the owners. Now, maybe the owners are 22 constrained by Mr. Dobbs, but we don't know what 23 the owners are going to do with Mr. Dobbs.
24 That's, you know, a whole separate proceeding.
25 There's no question but that the Township wants to

1 prevent Mr. Dobbs from getting what he is asking
2 for. That has been our absolutely clear position 3 since August of 1979. The fact he has shifted his 4 proposal from a one million plus square foot
5 shopping center to alleged Mount Laurel housing, 6 does not change our position for solid and valid 7 planning principles.

8 THE COURT: Do you both have a copy of that 9 opinion, by the way?

10 MR. FERGUSON: Far Hills?

11 THE COURT: Far Hills opinion.

12 MR. FERGUSON: Yes, your Honor.

13 MR. BASRALIAN: Yes, your Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right. I'm satisfied I've 15 heard everything I have to hear, unless someone --

16 MR. FERGUSON: I just would remind the 17 Court that the Mount Laurel overlay -- all our 18 Mount Laurel zoning has been of the overlay 19 variety. That basic underlying zoning in the 20 ordinance really hasn't changed. We're talking 21 about the overlays to make up the compliance 22 package.

23 Unless the Court has any other questions of 24 me, I don't think I need go on.
